Snowflake SnowPro Advanced Administrator ADA-C02 Sample Questions (Q47-Q52):

NEW QUESTION # 47

A Snowflake account is configured with SCIM provisioning for user accounts and has bi-directional synchronization for user identities. An Administrator with access to SECURITYADMIN uses the Snowflake UI to create a user by issuing the following commands:

```
use role USERADMIN;
create or replace role DEVELOPER_ROLE;
create user PTORRES PASSWORD = 'hello world!' MUST_CHANGE_PASSWORD = FALSE default_role = DEVELOPER_ROLE;
```

The new user named PTORRES successfully logs in, but sees a default role of PUBLIC in the web UI. When attempted, the following command fails:

```
use DEVELOPER_ROLE;
Why does this command fail?
```

- A. The new role can only take effect after USERADMIN has logged out.
- B. The new role will only take effect once the identity provider has synchronized by way of SCIM with the Snowflake account.

- C. USERADMIN needs to explicitly grant the DEVELOPER_ROLE to the new USER.
- D. The DEVELOPER_ROLE needs to be granted to SYSADMIN before user PTORRES will be able to use the role.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Creating a user in Snowflake does not automatically grant them roles beyond PUBLIC. To use DEVELOPER_ROLE, the USERADMIN (or another role with MANAGE GRANTS privilege) must explicitly grant DEVELOPER_ROLE to PTORRES. Without this grant, the user cannot assume the role.

NEW QUESTION # 48

What session parameter can be used to test the integrity of secure views based on the account that is accessing that view?

- A. PRODUCER TEST ACCT
- B. SIMULATED DATA SHARING CONSUMER
- C. MIMIC CONSUMER ACCOUNT
- D. TEST ACCOUNT ID

Answer: C

Explanation:

The session parameter MIMIC_CONSUMER_ACCOUNT allows a data provider to test how secure views will appear to a specific consumer account. This ensures the integrity and correctness of secure views before they are shared.

NEW QUESTION # 49

A team is provisioning new lower environments from the production database using cloning. All production objects and references reside in the database, and do not have external references.

What set of object references needs to be re-pointed before granting access for usage?

- A. Sequences, views, secure views, and materialized views
- B. There are no object references that need to be re-pointed
- C. Sequences, storage integrations, views, secure views, and materialized views
- D. Sequences, views, and secure views

Answer: B

Explanation:

When cloning a database in Snowflake, all objects - including sequences, views, secure views, and materialized views - are fully contained within the cloned database. Since there are no external references, no object references need to be re-pointed before granting access.

NEW QUESTION # 50

What are characteristics of Dynamic Data Masking? (Choose two.)

- A. The role that creates the masking policy will always see unmasked data in query results.
- B. A single masking policy can be applied to columns in different tables.
- C. A masking policy can be applied to the VALUE column of an external table.
- D. A masking policy that is currently set on a table can be dropped.
- E. A single masking policy can be applied to columns with different data types.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

A masking policy applied to a table or column can be dropped or replaced as needed. The same masking policy can be reused and applied to columns in different tables.

NEW QUESTION # 51

What is a characteristic of Snowflake's transaction locking and concurrency modeling?

- A. Queries executed within a given transaction see that transaction's uncommitted changes.
- B. Transaction locking in Snowflake is enforced exclusively at the row and table levels.
- C. A deadlock cannot occur in Snowflake, since concurrently executed queries and DML statements do not block one another.
- D. If two queries are concurrently executed against the same table, one of the two queries will be blocked until the other query completes.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Snowflake uses multi-version concurrency control (MVCC), which allows queries and DML statements to operate without blocking each other. This architecture eliminates the possibility of deadlocks because transactions work on snapshots of data rather than locking rows or tables in ways that could cause contention.
