Avaya Aura Communication Applications Implement Sample Questions (Q25-Q30):

NEW QUESTION # 25

Refer to the exhibit. Which type of a Configuration Profile in the Avaya Session Border Controller for Enterprise (ASBCE) allows to set Timers, URI Manipulation and Header Manipulation, and can be linked to a SIP Server Profile?

- A. Routing
- B. Topology Hiding
- C. Signaling Manipulation
- D. Server Interworking

Answer: D

Explanation:

In the Avaya Session Border Controller for Enterprise (ASBCE), the Server Interworking Profile is the primary configuration object used to manage the "behavioral" aspects of SIP signaling between the SBC and a specific SIP entity (such as a Session Manager or a third-party SIP trunk provider).

Timers: This profile allows you to define custom values for various SIP timers (e.g., re-invite timeouts, T1/T2 timers) to ensure compatibility with different vendor requirements.

URI Manipulation: It provides the capability to modify the request URIs, which is often required to normalize dialing patterns or comply with specific carrier formatting.

Header Manipulation: It allows for adding, modifying, or removing SIP headers (e.g., P-Asserted- Identity, Diversion headers) to ensure that the internal Avaya network and the external network can communicate correctly.

Linking: You link this profile to a SIP Server Profile within the SBC configuration. Once linked, the SBC applies these specific interworking rules whenever it communicates with that specific server, ensuring that the signaling is tailored to the needs of that connection.

NEW QUESTION # 26

What are the three components of Avaya Aura Messaging (AAM)? (Choose three.)

- A. Application Server
- B. Messaging Distributor
- C. Messaging Store
- D. AxC/Directory
- E. SM100 Module

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

The AXC connector is always co-resident with the Avaya message store.

NEW QUESTION # 27

Which statement regarding the Survivable Communication Manager (CM) is true?

- A. It is configured on the System Manager (SMGR) as a SIP Entity, with an Entity Link to the BSM.
- B. It is configured on the System Manager (SMGR) as a SIP Entity, with Entity Links to the Core Session Managers.
- C. It does not require configuring on the System Manager (SMGR) either as a Managed Element, or as a SIP Entity.
- D. It is configured on the System Manager (SMGR) as a Managed Element.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In an Avaya Aura architecture, a Survivable Remote CM (often referred to as an LSP or a Survivable Server) must be able to take over call processing if connectivity to the main Session Manager (SM) cluster is lost. To achieve this:

SIP Entity: The Survivable CM must be defined as a SIP Entity in the System Manager so that the network recognizes it as a valid SIP-capable device.

Entity Links: It requires Entity Links to the Core Session Managers to ensure that SIP signaling can be routed correctly between the survivable server and the main cluster. This allows for the failover of SIP traffic if the primary CM becomes unreachable.

- B. Avaya Aura Media Server (AAMS) using H.323
- C. Avaya Aura Communications Manager (CM) using H.323
- D. Avaya Aura Communications Manager (CM) using SIP

Answer: C

Explanation:

2. On the Switch Connections page, in the Add Connection field, type a switch connection name (for example Switch1) For the Secure H323 Connection check box, do one of the following:

Etc.
