Salesforce Certified Omnistudio Consultant Sample Questions (Q125-Q130):

NEW QUESTION # 125

A consultant is working with a client who wants to display specific account information on a Flexcard.

The client wants to include account status, priority level, creation date, and company logo. They also want to include actions such as closing a case, opening a new case, or creating a task.

What is the best approach for the consultant to meet the client's requirements?

- A. Use Integration Procedures to integrate the necessary data
- B. Use Omniscripts to ,, script that display .. required information
- C. Use the Flexcard Designer to create a Flexcard, adding the necessary fields and actions.
- D. Use Data Mappers to transfer and transform the necessary data.

Answer: C

Explanation:

* FlexCards (B) - FlexCards are the best choice because they are designed to display account-related information such as status, priority level, creation date, and company logo while also allowing the inclusion of actions (e.g., closing a case, opening a new case, creating a task).

* FlexCards provide a user-friendly UI with clickable actions that can trigger OmniScripts or Integration Procedures to process user interactions.

* A. Use OmniScripts - OmniScripts are for step-by-step guided interactions but are not primarily used for displaying static account information.

* C. Use Integration Procedures - Integration Procedures fetch and transform data but do not provide a user interface. They can be used within FlexCards but are not the solution on their own.

* D. Use Data Mappers - Salesforce does not have a native "Data Mappers" tool; data transformation is handled by DataRaptors or Integration Procedures.

Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation: Why not the other options?? Salesforce OmniStudio Reference:

NEW QUESTION # 126

A business has an existing Contact FlexCard that currently displays 5 actions. The business needs to add 3 more actions to the existing FlexCard. All 8 actions are equally important and used with the same frequency. The business wants to display the name and icon for each action. However, when reviewing the existing design, the consultant notices that the FlexCard is overloaded with actions. What FlexCard design solution should the consultant recommend?

- A. Add a menu element and include all the actions
- B. Create a new contact FlexCard for the new actions
- C. Use a block element to add these new actions
- D. Add a flyout to the existing FlexCard

Answer: A

Explanation:

The FlexCard design solution that the consultant should recommend is to add a menu element and include all the actions. A menu element can display a list of actions in a dropdown menu, with icons and labels for each action. The consultant can use a menu element to show all the 8 actions in the FlexCard, without overloading it with buttons or links. This will improve the user experience and the design of the FlexCard.

NEW QUESTION # 127

An investment portfolio manager wants to build a console to display:

* Client information

* Profile attributes

* Investment instrument information

There are more than 20 profile attributes. Each investment instrument has 15 fields of information to display.

The fields should be grouped logically.

How should the consultant design a solution to meet the requirements?

- A. * A header FlexCard for client information and profile attributes* FlexCards for investment instrument information
- B. * A header FlexCard for client information and profile attributes* Child FlexCards for investment instruments with a Flyout for additional information
- C. * An OmniScript with a Step for client information* Block Elements for investment instruments
- D. * A header FlexCard for client information with a Flyout for profile attributes* Child FlexCards for investment instruments with a Flyout for additional information

Answer: C

Explanation:

The consultant should design a solution using an OmniScript with multiple Step elements to meet the requirements. An OmniScript is a tool that can design customer interactions using elements and actions. The consultant can use an OmniScript to display client information, profile attributes, and investment instrument information. A Step element can group related fields and elements in an OmniScript, and display them in a page or a section. The consultant can use multiple Step elements to organize the information into logical groups, such as client information, profile attributes, and investment instruments.

NEW QUESTION # 128

How should the consultant design the OmniScript solution to allow the user to stop and resume a process at a later time?

- A. Configure a ResumeStep
- B. Configure the Save property
- C. Use a DataRaptor Post Action
- D. Use an Integration Procedure

Answer: B

Explanation:

The consultant should design the OmniScript solution using the Save property to allow the user to stop and resume a process at a later time. The Save property is a property that determines whether an OmniScript can be saved as a draft and resumed later from where it was left off. The consultant can enable the Save property on an OmniScript to allow the user to stop and resume a process at a later time, without losing any data or progress.

NEW QUESTION # 129

A consultant receives a requirement to display products installed at an account site in a customer's 360° FlexCard view. The business requires that the width of the fields displayed should change depending on the device used to view the FlexCard. For example, the Product Name and Model field elements should display at full width on mobile devices, but they should shrink to 60% on devices such as laptops and desktops.

How should the consultant design the FlexCard to meet this requirement?

- A. Enable the Responsive feature on the Product Name and Model field elements
- B. Enable the Mobile-First feature in FlexCard settings
- C. Create two FlexCards, one for mobile devices and another for non-mobile devices
- D. Create two states, one for mobile devices and another for non-mobile devices

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct way to design the FlexCard to meet this requirement is to create two states, one for mobile devices and another for non-mobile devices. States allow the designer to define different layouts and behaviors for the same FlexCard based on conditions. The width of the fields can be adjusted for each state using the Size property. Enabling the Responsive feature on the field elements would not change their width, but only their alignment. Enabling the Mobile-First feature in FlexCard settings would not affect the width of the fields, but only the order in which they are displayed. Creating two FlexCards, one for mobile devices and another for non-mobile devices, would create redundant code and maintenance issues.
