NEW QUESTION # 180

Which encryption algorithm is the least secured?

- A. AES-128
- B. 3DES
- C. DES
- D. AES-256

Answer: C

Explanation:

DES (Data Encryption Standard) is a symmetric block cipher that uses a 56-bit key to encrypt and decrypt 64-bit blocks of data. It was developed by IBM in 1975 and adopted by the US government as a standard for encryption. However, DES has been proven to be insecure and vulnerable to various attacks, such as brute force, differential cryptanalysis, and linear cryptanalysis. A brute force attack can break DES in a matter of hours using modern hardware. Differential cryptanalysis can reduce the number of keys to be searched by a factor of four, and linear cryptanalysis can reduce it by a factor of two. Therefore, DES is the least secure encryption algorithm among the options given.

- A. Symmetric routing
- B. Failovers
- C. Anti-Spoofing
- D. Asymmetric routing

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

Sticky Decision Function (SDF) is required to prevent asymmetric routing in an Active-Active cluster.

Asymmetric routing occurs when packets from a source to a destination follow a different path than packets from the destination to the source. This can cause problems with stateful inspection and NAT. SDF ensures that packets from the same connection are handled by the same cluster member1. References: Check Point R81 ClusterXL Administration Guide
