Esri Enterprise Administration Professional 2201 Sample Questions (Q19-Q24):

NEW QUESTION # 19

A GIS administrator must determine which type of service to use when publishing a new basemap for the organization. The basemap must meet several requirements:
* Support offline workflows
* Use as little storage space as possible
* High-resolution display
* Easily incorporate data updates periodically made to a feature service Which service type should be used?

- A. Cached map service
- B. Dynamic map service
- C. Vector tile service

Answer: C

Explanation:
Vector tile services are optimized for high-resolution display and efficient storage, making them ideal for offline workflows. They allow for smaller file sizes compared to raster tiles and support dynamic styling.
Additionally, vector tile services can be updated by regenerating tiles from updated feature services, facilitating easy incorporation of data updates.

NEW QUESTION # 20

An ArcGIS Pro user receives the following error when trying to publish to ArcGIS Enterprise:
"Unable to publish to ArcGIS Server, error 001369: failed to create service" The ArcGIS Server logs reveal:
* Failed to create service
* Internal server error
* Unable to instantiate class for XML schema type
* Invalid XML registry file
* 390 ArcSOC processes running
* Server uses only half of available RAM
Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Use more dedicated instances instead of shared
- B. Scale up the ArcGIS Server machine resources
- C. Increase the non-interactive desktop heap size

Answer: A

Explanation:
This issue is consistent with desktop heap exhaustion, especially when a high number of ArcSOC processes (e.g., 390) are running on Windows. Desktop heap is a limited memory resource used for GUI and system object management. When it runs out, services can fail to start and produce XML-related errors.
Increasing the non-interactive desktop heap size in the Windows registry resolves this.
From Esri documentation:
"If the Windows desktop heap size is too low, ArcGIS Server may be unable to create new processes (ArcSOC), causing service failures and related internal server errors."
* Option B is a generic fix and won't address the specific heap exhaustion issue.
* Option C doesn't help if the root issue is OS-level heap size limits.

NEW QUESTION # 21
A GIS administrator is publishing a feature service. All 2,400 features in the dataset must be able to be returned from a single request to the service.
Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Adjust pooling to handle the request
- B. Use service defaults for publishing
- C. Enable cached drawing mode
- D. Increase the max record count

Answer: D

Explanation:
By default, feature services limit the number of records returned in a single request (usually set to
1,000). To allow all 2,400 features to be returned in one call, the administrator needs to increase the
"Maximum number of records returned by the server" (maxRecordCount) setting during or after publishing.
From the ArcGIS Server documentation:
"The maxRecordCount property defines the number of records returned by the server in a single request. To return all features, this value must be increased accordingly."
* Option A (adjust pooling) relates to concurrency and scalability, not data retrieval limits.
* Option C would keep the default setting of 1,000, which would not meet the requirement.
* Option D relates to visual performance, not record retrieval.

NEW QUESTION # 22
Multiple users report that a map service is experiencing negative performance. Upon review of ArcGIS Monitor data, the GIS analyst finds the following:
* The minimum number of instances is 2 and the maximum is 8 for that service.
* The data is in a publication Enterprise Geodatabase with no system usage in excess of 50%.
* At the p75 level of requests, the map service time is 10 times longer than the service time at the p25 level.
* The number of instances in use at the p50 level is 8.
* The maximum % of physical memory in use is 40%, and the maximum % of virtual memory in use is 44% on the ArcGIS Server.
* The maximum % CPU utilization observed is 53%.
What is causing the issue?

- A. The maximum instance setting is too low for the demand on the underperforming map service.
- B. The network connection between the database server and ArcGIS Server is saturated.
- C. The client is an Android device, and the ArcGIS Server is a Linux virtual machine.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 23
A client requires an ArcGIS Server site with the ability to:
* Servecached image servicesupdated annually
* Servedynamic feature servicesfrom a PostgreSQL enterprise geodatabase Which ArcGIS Server license role is required?

- A. GIS Server
- B. GeoAnalytics Server
- C. Image Server
- D. Mission Server

Answer: C

Explanation:
Topublish and serve cached image services, the ArcGIS Server must be licensed as anImage Server. This licensing role is designed specifically for servingraster datasets,image services, andcache-based imagery workflows.
From ArcGIS Server documentation:
"The Image Server role is required to publish and manage image services, including those that serve pre- generated tile caches and support raster analytics."

* OptionA(GIS Server) supports feature and map services, butnot cached imagery.
* OptionC(Mission Server) is for real-time operations, unrelated to imagery or features.
