Salesforce Certified Platform Developer I Sample Questions (Q193-Q198):

NEW QUESTION # 193

Universal Containers decided to transition from Classic to Lightning Experience. They asked a developer to replace a JavaScript button that was being used to create records with prepopulated values.

What can the developer use to accomplish this?

- A. Validation rules
- B. Apex triggers
- C. Record triggered flows
- D. Quick Actions

Answer: D

Explanation:

Why Quick Actions?

Quick Actions allow developers to create prepopulated forms for creating or updating records.

They are a modern alternative to JavaScript buttons in Lightning Experience.

Why Not Other Options?

A: Validation rules enforce data integrity but do not create records.

B: Apex triggers automate processes but are not used for user-initiated actions.

C: Record-triggered flows execute automatically when records are created or updated, but they do not replace JavaScript buttons for user-initiated actions.

NEW QUESTION # 194

Which statement describes the execution order when trigger are associated to the same object and event?

- A. Triggers are executed alphabetically by trigger name.
- B. Triggers are executed in the order they are created..
- C. Trigger execution order cannot be guaranteed.
- D. Triggers are executed in the order they are modified

Answer: C

Explanation:

When multiple triggers are associated to the same object and event, such as before insert, Salesforce does not guarantee the order of execution of those triggers. Therefore, it is best practice to avoid having multiple triggers for the same object and event, and instead consolidate the logic into a single trigger handler class. This way, you can control the order of execution of your trigger logic and avoid unexpected results or conflicts. #### NEW QUESTION # 195

In terms of the MVC paradigm, what are two advantages of implementing the view layer of a Salesforce application using Lightning Web Component-based development over Visualforce?

Choose 2 answers

- A. Rich component ecosystem
- B. Log capturing via the Debug Logs Setup page
- C. Self-contained and reusable units of an application
- D. Built-in standard and custom set controllers

Answer: A,C

NEW QUESTION # 196

A developer created a new after insert trigger on the Lead object that creates Task records for each Lead.

After deploying to production, an existing outside integration that inserts Lead records in batches to Salesforce is occasionally reporting total batch failures being caused by the Task insert statement. This causes the integration process in the outside system to stop, requiring a manual restart.

Which change should the developer make to allow the integration to continue when some records in a batch cause failure due to the Task insert statement, so that manual restarts are not needed?

- A. Deactivate the trigger before the integration runs.
- B. Use a try-catch block after the insert statement,
- C. Remove the Apex class from the integration user's profile,

- D. Use the Database method with allOrNone set to false.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Using Database.insert with allOrNone=false allows partial success in DML operations.

Option D: Use the Database method with allOrNone set to false.

Records that cause errors are not inserted.

Successful records are committed.

Prevents the entire batch from failing.

Why Not Other Options:

Option A: Deactivating the trigger is not practical.

Option B: Removing the class from the profile may cause other issues.

Option C: A try-catch block won't prevent the batch from failing.

NEW QUESTION # 197

A developer created a visualforce page using a custom controller that calls an apex helper class. A method in the helper class hits a governor limit. what is the result of the transaction?

- A. All changes made by the custom controller are saved
- B. All changes in the transaction are rolled back
- C. The helper class creates a savepoint and continues
- D. The custom controller calls the helper class method ag

Answer: A
