IIBA Entry Certificate in Business Analysis (ECBA) Sample Questions (Q78-Q83):

NEW QUESTION # 78

Which of the following techniques is used to identify the elements and boundaries of the requirements architecture?

- A. Scope modelling
- B. Interface analysis
- C. Functional decomposition
- D. Environmental scan

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 79

A business analyst (BA) will regularly perform stakeholder analysis to understand which of the following?

- A. Goals and objectives
- B. Attitudes and influence
- C. Changes in business needs
- D. Communication channels

Answer: B

Explanation:

Stakeholder analysis is a technique used by business analysts to understand the attitudes and influence of various stakeholders. This involves identifying stakeholders, assessing their interests, influence, and the impact they can have on the project. Understanding stakeholders' attitudes and influence helps in managing their expectations, securing their support, and mitigating potential risks associated with stakeholder engagement.

References: The BABOK Guide discusses stakeholder analysis as a part of the underlying competencies that a business analyst should develop. It is crucial for the success of any initiative to identify stakeholders, analyze their influence and impact levels, and maintain communication with them even when situations or people change¹. Additionally, stakeholder relationship management is listed as one of the core business analyst skills in the BABOK Guide².

NEW QUESTION # 80

Which of the following business analysis tasks is to ensure that requirements and design specifications and models meet quality standards and are usable for the purpose they serve?

- A. Manage requirements
- B. Trace requirements
- C. Validate requirements
- D. Verify requirements

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Verify Requirements task ensures that requirements and designs meet quality standards and are usable for the purposes they are intended to serve. It focuses on confirming that the documentation is clear, correct, consistent, and testable.

Quality characteristics evaluated during this task include:

Clarity and unambiguity

Feasibility and relevance

Completeness and correctness

Consistency and traceability

This task is typically done before requirements validation (which ensures alignment with business goals and stakeholder needs).

BABOK Guide v3 - Section 7.1: Verify Requirements:

"The purpose of Verify Requirements is to ensure that requirements and designs specifications and models meet quality standards and are usable for the purpose they serve."

NEW QUESTION # 81

What is a definitional rule?

- A. A representation of the operational knowledge of the organization
- B. A rule that can be violated
- C. An obligation or prohibition of conduct, action, practice, or procedure
- D. A representation of the behavior of people

Answer: A

Explanation:

Definitional rules are a type of business rule that form theories or produce information. They represent something that is fundamentally true or untrue about some concept within the organization. Unlike behavioral rules, which are about people's behavior, definitional rules constitute operational knowledge of the organization. They cannot be violated but can be misused. For instance, a definitional rule might be used to classify different categories of customers based on contractual agreements or order quantities.

NEW QUESTION # 82

While assessing requirements changes, a business analyst (BA) will determine the formality of the assessment process based on:

- A. governance approach.
- B. potential value.
- C. business analysis approach.
- D. change strategy.

Answer: A

Explanation:

While assessing requirements changes, a business analyst (BA) determines the formality of the assessment process based on the governance approach. The governance approach provides the framework within which changes are evaluated and decisions are made regarding the approval or rejection of changes. This approach outlines the processes, roles, responsibilities, and standards that guide how changes are managed, ensuring that changes align with organizational policies and strategic objectives.
