- A. Direct
- B. Evaluate
- C. Monitor

NEW QUESTION # 131

Which dimension is concerned with management of relationships with external organizations?

- A. Organizations and people
- B. Information and technology
- C. Value streams and processes
- D. Partners and suppliers

Answer: D

Explanation:

The correct answer is partners and suppliers because this ITIL dimension focuses on an organization's relationships with external parties involved in creating, delivering, supporting, or improving products and services. These may include suppliers, strategic partners, outsourced providers, and other contributors in the wider service ecosystem. ITIL emphasizes that no organization operates alone, so managing agreements, dependencies, expectations, and collaboration with third parties is essential. This dimension also considers sourcing strategies, levels of integration, risk, capability availability, and service coordination across networks.

NEW QUESTION # 132

Which guiding principle emphasizes understanding how all parts of an organization function together as an integrated system?

- A. Keep it simple and practical
- B. Progress iteratively with feedback
- C. Focus on value
- D. Think and work holistically

Answer: D

Explanation:

The guiding principle "Think and work holistically" emphasizes understanding how all parts of an organization function together as an integrated system, recognizing that services and value are created through the interaction of interconnected components rather than isolated activities.

NEW QUESTION # 133

Which statement BEST explains the relationship between an organization's purpose and its operating model?

- A. The operating model replaces the organization's purpose once the value chain is defined
- B. The purpose and operating model are unrelated because one focuses on customers and the other on internal processes
- C. The operating model defines the organization's financial strategy to achieve its purpose
- D. The organization's purpose determines why it exists, while the operating model shows how it fulfills that purpose

Answer: D

Explanation:

The best explanation is that the organization's purpose determines why it exists, while the operating model shows how it fulfills that purpose, so option D is correct. In ITIL, purpose provides the reason for being, the value intent, and the basis for strategic direction. The operating model then describes how the organization arranges its capabilities, workflows, resources, practices, and interactions to turn that purpose into real value. These two concepts are closely connected. The operating model does not replace purpose, and it is broader than only financial strategy. It also cannot be separated from customer and stakeholder concerns because its whole role is to support value creation. By linking purpose and operating model, ITIL helps organizations align intent, structure, behavior, and execution in a coherent way.
