CompTIA Security+ Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q430-Q435):

NEW QUESTION # 430

A company receives an alert that a network device vendor, which is widely used in the enterprise, has been banned by the government. Which of the following will the company's general counsel most likely be concerned with during a hardware refresh of these devices?

- A. Sanctions
- B. Loss of license
- C. Cost of replacement
- D. Data sovereignty

Answer: A

Explanation:

The ban represents a government-imposed sanction; the general counsel must ensure the hardware refresh avoids any continued use or procurement of the sanctioned vendor's devices to remain legally compliant.

NEW QUESTION # 431

Which of the following best explains a concern with OS-based vulnerabilities?

- A. Exploitation of an operating system vulnerability is typically easier than any other vulnerability.
- B. The OS vendor 's patch cycle is not frequent enough to mitigate the large number of threats.
- C. Most users trust the core operating system features and may not notice if the system has been compromised.
- D. An exploit would give an attacker access to system functions that span multiple applications.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Operating system (OS) vulnerabilities can allow attackers to exploit system functions that affect multiple applications, leading to widespread compromise.

B (patch cycle concerns) is valid but not the primary concern—many OS vendors provide regular patches.

C (user trust in OS features) is a risk, but the more significant issue is that OS vulnerabilities often affect multiple system components.

D (ease of exploitation) is not always true, as application and human-related vulnerabilities can be equally exploitable.

Thus, the main concern is that an OS exploit can impact multiple system functions, leading to broader security risks.

NEW QUESTION # 432

The security operations center is researching an event concerning a suspicious IP address. A security analyst looks at the following event logs and discovers that a significant portion of the user accounts have experienced faded log-in attempts when authenticating from the same IP address:

Which of the following most likely describes attack that took place?

- A. Spraying
- B. Dictionary

- C. Brute-force
- D. Rainbow table

Answer: A

Explanation:

Password spraying is a type of attack where an attacker tries a small number of commonly used passwords across a large number of accounts. The event logs showing failed login attempts for many user accounts from the same IP address are indicative of a password spraying attack, where the attacker is attempting to gain access by guessing common passwords.

References = CompTIA Security+ SY0-701 study materials, particularly in the domain of identity and access management and common attack vectors like password spraying.

NEW QUESTION # 433

A systems administrator creates a script that validates OS version, patch levels, and installed applications when users log in. Which of the following examples best describes the purpose of this script?

- A. Guardrails implementation
- B. Baseline enforcement
- C. Resource scaling
- D. Policy enumeration

Answer: B

Explanation:

Baseline enforcement ensures that all systems adhere to predefined security configurations, such as approved OS versions and patch levels, improving compliance and reducing vulnerabilities.

NEW QUESTION # 434

An administrator must implement a solution that provides security and network connectivity between two companies. Which of the following infrastructure solutions is the best for this purpose?

- A. NAC
- B. NGFW
- C. VPN
- D. UTM

Answer: C

Explanation:

The best answer is B. VPN .

A VPN (Virtual Private Network) is the standard solution for securely connecting two separate organizations or networks across an untrusted network, such as the internet. A site-to-site VPN provides:

- * secure connectivity between both companies
- * encrypted traffic in transit
- * protection of data confidentiality and integrity
- * a practical way to interconnect business networks

Why the other options are incorrect:

- * A. UTM A unified threat management device offers multiple security features, but it is not specifically the best answer for secure connectivity between two companies.
- * C. NAC Network Access Control regulates which devices can connect to a network, but it does not provide intercompany network connectivity.
- * D. NGFW A next-generation firewall improves traffic inspection and filtering, but it is not by itself the main solution for secure network connectivity between two companies.

From the SY0-701 perspective, when secure communication between separate organizations is required, VPN is the most appropriate infrastructure solution.
