NEW QUESTION # 874

A user has an application that writes a new Tile to a cloud storage location every 5 minutes.

What would be the MOST efficient way to get the files into Snowflake?

- A. Create a task that runs a copy into operation from an external stage every 5 minutes
- B. Create a task that puts the files in an internal stage and automate the data loading wizard
- C. Create a task that runs a GET operation to intermittently check for new files
- D. Set up cloud provider notifications on the Tile location and use Snowpipe with auto-ingest

Answer: D

Explanation:

The most efficient way to get files into Snowflake, especially when new files are being written to a cloud storage location at frequent intervals, is to use Snowpipe with auto-ingest. Snowpipe is Snowflake's continuous data ingestion service that loads data as soon as it becomes available in a cloud storage location. By setting up cloud provider notifications, Snowpipe can be triggered automatically whenever new files are written to the storage location, ensuring that the data is loaded into Snowflake with minimal latency and without the need for manual intervention or scheduling frequent tasks.

NEW QUESTION # 875

What is true about sharing data in Snowflake? (Choose two.)

- A. The shared data is copied into the Data Consumer account, so the Consumer can modify it without impacting the base data of the Provider.
- B. A Snowflake account can both provide and consume shared data.
- C. The Data Consumer pays only for compute resources to query the shared data.
- D. The Provider is charged for compute resources used by the Data Consumer to query the shared data.
- E. The Data Consumer pays for data storage as well as for data computing.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

In Snowflake's data sharing model, any full Snowflake account can both provide and consume shared data.

Additionally, the data consumer pays only for the compute resources used to query the shared data. No actual data is copied or transferred between accounts, and shared data does not take up any storage in a consumer account, so the consumer does not pay for data storage.
