ASIS Physical Security Professional Exam Sample Questions (Q39-Q44):

NEW QUESTION # 39

Some people emerge as experts who then sell their expertise for a fee; these people are commonly referred to as:

- A. Directors
- B. Professionals
- C. Respondents
- D. Consultants

Answer: D

Explanation:

Security consultants are often retained to provide strategic input on staffing needs, policy design, and technology integration. Their advice helps organizations make informed decisions regarding the deployment of personnel, the structure of policies, and the selection of physical and electronic security systems.

NEW QUESTION # 40

The computers those are capable of great processing speed and data storage, allowing multiple users to utilize the system simultaneously is called:

- A. Supercomputers
- B. Main computers
- C. Mainframes
- D. Workstations

Answer: C

Explanation:

Mainframes are high-capacity computers known for their powerful processing speed, extensive data storage, and ability to support hundreds or thousands of simultaneous users. They are typically used by large organizations for mission-critical applications such as bulk data processing, enterprise resource planning, and transaction processing.

Workstations (A) are personal or high-performance single-user computers.

Main computers (B) is not a formal term.

Supercomputers (C) are used for highly complex calculations, not general-purpose multi-user environments.

NEW QUESTION # 41

A solicitation by police officers is another charge that may be leveled against security officers is called:

- A. Entrapment
- B. Criminal liability
- C. Wrongful death

- D. Verdict Act

Answer: A

Explanation:

Entrapment occurs when a law enforcement officer or someone acting in that capacity induces a person to commit a crime that they otherwise would not have committed. This can be a serious legal defense and may also apply to security officers acting beyond their scope by soliciting or encouraging unlawful behavior, especially if they're working closely with law enforcement.

Criminal liability (A) is too broad.

Wrongful death (B) and Verdict Act (C) are unrelated to this scenario.

NEW QUESTION # 42

If a crime occurs on a company's property, the company can be considered "on notice." A subsequent occurrence of a similar crime would then be considered:

- A. A breach of duty
- B. Legally binding
- C. Foreseeable
- D. The result of inadequate security

Answer: C

Explanation:

Once a crime has occurred on company property, the organization is considered "on notice." If a similar incident happens again, it can be deemed "foreseeable," and the company may be held liable for failing to prevent it.

B and D (Inadequate security, breach of duty) may result from foreseeability, but are not the legal principle itself.

C (Legally binding) is unrelated to crime foreseeability in this context.

NEW QUESTION # 43

_____ has been defined as the impact of a loss as measured in dollars.

- A. Corruptness
- B. Immorality
- C. Loss reserves
- D. Criticality

Answer: D

Explanation:

In security and risk management, criticality refers to the importance or impact of a loss, typically measured in monetary terms. It helps determine how severely the loss of an asset, process, or system could affect operations, productivity, or safety. Understanding criticality allows security professionals to prioritize protection efforts based on potential financial and operational consequences.
