Questions (Q147-Q152):

NEW QUESTION # 147
In which of the following phases of the incident handling and response (IH&R) process is the identified security incidents analyzed, validated, categorized, and prioritized?

- A. Containment
- B. Notification
- C. Incident recording and assignment
- D. Incident triage

Answer: D

Explanation:
Incident triage is the phase in the Incident Handling and Response (IH&R) process where identified security incidents are analyzed, validated, categorized, and prioritized. This step is crucial for determining the severity of incidents and deciding on the order in which they should be addressed. During triage, incident handlers assess the impact, urgency, and potential harm of an incident to prioritize their response efforts effectively.
This ensures that resources are allocated efficiently, and the most critical incidents are handled first. Incident recording and assignment involve logging incidents and assigning them to handlers, containment focuses on limiting the extent of damage, and notification involves informing stakeholders about the incident.
References:The Incident Handler (ECIH v3) courses and study guides detail the IH&R process, emphasizing the importance of triage in managing and responding to security incidents effectively.

NEW QUESTION # 148
Which of the following incident recovery testing methods works by creating a mock disaster, like fire to identify the reaction of the procedures that are implemented to handle such situations?

- A. Live walk-through testing
- B. Facility testing
- C. Scenario testing
- D. Procedure testing

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 149
ZYX company experienced a DoS/DDoS attack on their network. Upon investigating the incident, they concluded that the attack is an application-layer attack. Which of the following attacks did the attacker use?

- A. Slowloris attack
- B. SYN flood attack
- C. Ping of ceath
- D. UDP flood attack

Answer: A

Explanation:
The Slowloris attack is a type of application-layer attack that targets the web server by establishing and maintaining many simultaneous HTTP connections to the target server. Unlike traditional network-layer DoS
/DDoS attacks such as UDP flood or SYN flood, Slowloris is designed to hold as many connections to the target web server open for as long as possible. It does so by sending partial requests, which are never completed, and periodically sending subsequent HTTP headers to keep the connections open. This consumes the server's resources, leading to denial of service as legitimate users cannot establish connections. The Slowloris attack is effective even against servers with a high bandwidth because it targets the server's connection pool, not its network bandwidth.
References:Incident Handler (ECIH v3) courses and study guides particularly emphasize understanding different types of attacks, including application-layer attacks like Slowloris, as part of the incident handling and response process.

NEW QUESTION # 150

- A. Risk planning
- B. Risk avoidance
- C. Risk assumption
- D. Risk transference

Answer: C

Explanation:
Risk assumption involves accepting the potential risk and continuing to operate the IT system while implementing controls to reduce the risk to an acceptable level. This strategy acknowledges that some level of risk is inevitable and focuses on managing it through mitigation measures rather than eliminating it entirely.
Risk avoidance would entail taking actions to avoid the risk entirely, risk planning involves preparing for potential risks, and risk transference shifts the risk to another party, typically through insurance or outsourcing.
Risk assumption is a pragmatic approach that balances the need for operational continuity with the imperative of risk management.References:The ECIH v3 certification program covers various risk mitigation strategies, emphasizing the selection of the appropriate approach based on the organization's risk tolerance and the specific context of the threat.
