Pegasystems Certified Pega System Architect 24 Sample Questions (Q239-Q244):

NEW QUESTION # 239

Which action occurs when a child case is withdrawn?

- A. The case is reassigned to a different queue
- B. The parent case is also withdrawn
- C. All related cases are automatically closed
- D. The parent case remains open unless specified otherwise

Answer: D

Explanation:

When a child case is withdrawn, the parent case remains open unless configured otherwise. This allows flexibility in managing multiple case dependencies. The parent case may require manual action to close or continue processing. This prevents premature closure of ongoing workflows.

NEW QUESTION # 240

Which two methods allow simulating data retrieval from an external system? (Choose Two)

- A. Data Page Simulation
- B. Mock Data Source
- C. Work Queue Routing
- D. SLA-Based Refresh

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

A Data Page Simulation allows temporary test data to be loaded instead of live data. A Mock Data Source provides static sample data for UI components and integrations. These methods allow developers to test application behavior without an actual API or database. This reduces development dependencies on external systems.

NEW QUESTION # 241

Which rule ensures that a field is editable only when a specific condition is met?

- A. Data Page
- B. Case Dependency
- C. Validate Rule
- D. When Rule

Answer: D

Explanation:

A When Rule defines conditions that control when a field is editable, read-only, or hidden. This is useful for restricting inputs based on user roles, case statuses, or approvals. It improves data accuracy and security by ensuring users interact with fields only when appropriate. It is commonly used in approval workflows and dynamic UI designs.

NEW QUESTION # 242

Which feature in Pega allows users to perform an action outside the primary case workflow?

- A. Local Action
- B. Assignment Routing
- C. Stage Transition
- D. SLA Override

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Local Action allows users to perform case-related tasks without changing the main process flow. These actions include updating case details, sending emails, or requesting approvals. Local Actions provide flexibility while maintaining process integrity. They help manage ad-hoc user interactions efficiently.

NEW QUESTION # 243

Which best practice improves rule organization and maintainability?

- A. Assigning rules to individual work queues
- B. Grouping related rules into RuleSets
- C. Creating separate rules for every use case
- D. Setting SLAs for each rule execution

Answer: B

Explanation:

Grouping related rules into RuleSets ensures better organization, modularity, and version control. This simplifies rule maintenance and application updates. Work queues, SLAs, and excessive rule creation can lead to complexity instead of improving maintainability.
