NEW QUESTION # 82

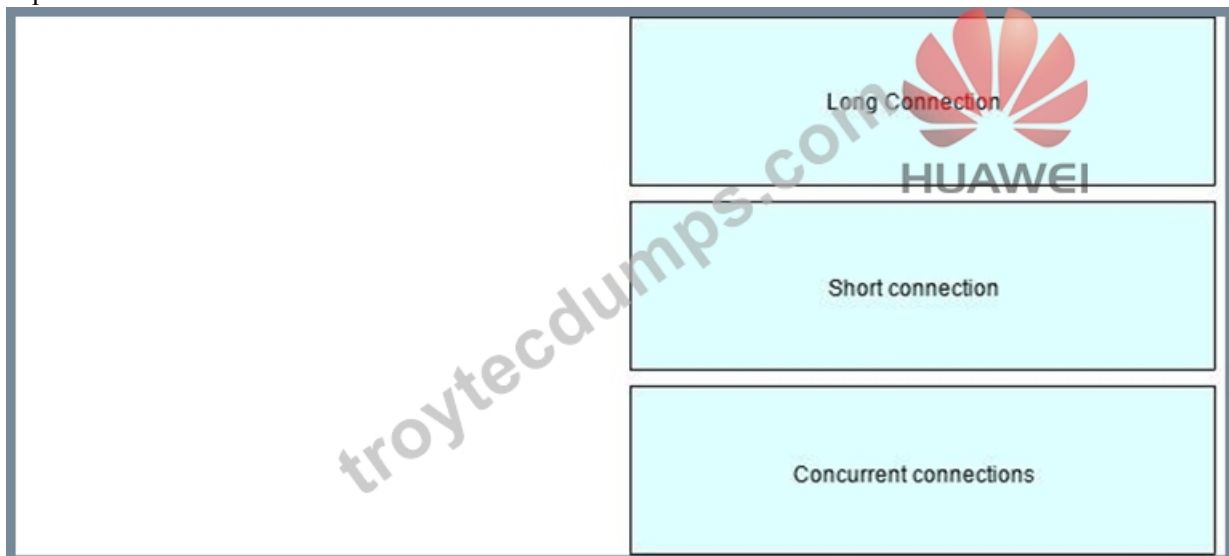

Drag and Drop Question

Please match the relevant concepts in Huawei Cloud Elastic Load Balancing ELB with their descriptions.

| Long Connection | Multiple data packets can be sent continuously on a connection. If no data packet is sent during the connection, both parties need to send link detection packets. |
| Short connection | When the two communicating parties have data exchange, a connection is established. After the data is sent, the connection is disconnected, that is, each connection only completes the sending of one business. |
| Concurrent connections | The client initiates requests to the server and establishes the total number of TCP connections. The concurrent connections of load balancing refer to the total number of TCP connections that can be received and processed per second. |
