NEW QUESTION # 103

Which two CI/CD plugins are supported by Prisma Cloud as part of its DevOps Security? (Choose two.).

- A. Visual Studio Code
- B. BitBucket
- C. IntelliJ
- D. CircleCI

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

For CI/CD plugins supported by Prisma Cloud as part of its DevOps Security, BitBucket (Option A) and CircleCI (Option C) are the correct choices. BitBucket is widely used for source code management and collaboration, while CircleCI is a popular CI/CD platform. Prisma Cloud integrates with these tools to scan code repositories and CI/CD pipelines for security issues, ensuring that vulnerabilities are identified and addressed early in the development process. Visual Studio Code (Option B) and IntelliJ (Option D) are IDEs rather than CI/CD tools, and while they are supported by Prisma Cloud for scanning and security purposes, they are not considered CI/CD plugins.

NEW QUESTION # 104

Which statement is true regarding CloudFormation templates?

- A. Scan support does not currently exist for nested references, macros, or intrinsic functions.
- B. A single template or a zip archive of template files cannot be scanned with a single API request.
- C. Scan support is provided for JSON, HTML and YAML formats.
- D. Request-Header-Field 'cloudformation-version' is required to request a scan.

Answer: A

Explanation:

CloudFormation templates, used to describe and provision all the infrastructure resources in cloud environments, support various elements including resources, mappings, parameters, and outputs. However, scan support for CloudFormation templates does not currently exist for nested references, macros, or intrinsic functions (option A). These advanced CloudFormation features can introduce complexity in scanning and interpreting the templates accurately for security and compliance checks.
