Microsoft GitHub Foundations Sample Questions (Q117-Q122):

NEW QUESTION # 117
You are collaborating on a large open-source project hosted on GitHub. To stay informed about discussions and progress, you want to be notified whenever someone mentions your username or assigns you an issue. You're also planning to showcase your project through a website using GitHub Pages. Which of the following actions or features would help you manage notifications effectively and publicize your project? (Choose three.)

- A. Use the mentions: qualifier to find threads where you are mentionedright
- B. Enable GitHub Actions to send email notifications for every commit
- C. Subscribe to an individual issue, pull request, or gist to receive updatesright
- D. Use GitHub Pages to host a static website directly from a repositoryright

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:
To effectively manage notifications and showcase your project, you can use the mentions:
qualifier to find discussions where you're mentioned, subscribe to specific issues or pull requests to receive updates, and leverage GitHub Pages to host a static website that highlights your work.
Option A is CORRECT because this helps you quickly locate discussions in which your username was mentioned, so you can stay informed.
Option C is CORRECT because GitHub allows users to subscribe to specific issues, pull requests, or gists so that they receive notifications related to those conversations.
Option D is CORRECT because this feature allows you to showcase your project publicly, making it accessible to a wider audience through a hosted website.

NEW QUESTION # 118
If there are multiple README files, which of the following locations will be displayed first?

- A. Root
- B. .github
- C. src
- D. docs

Answer: A

Explanation:
When multiple README files exist in different locations within a GitHub repository, the README.md file located in the root directory of the repository will be displayed first by default.
This file serves as the main documentation for the repository and is automatically rendered on the repository's home page.
Root Directory:
Option C is correct because the README.md file in the root directory is prioritized and displayed first on GitHub. This is the standard behavior for how GitHub presents documentation.

NEW QUESTION # 119
Which of the following are included as pre-defined repository roles?
(Each answer presents a complete solution. Choose three.)

- A. Delete
- B. Write
- C. Security
- D. View
- E. Triage
- F. Maintain

Answer: B,E,F

Explanation:
GitHub provides several pre-defined repository roles that determine the level of access and permissions a user has within a repository. The roles that are included by default are:
Triage: Allows users to manage issues and pull requests without write access to the code.
Maintain: Provides more extensive access, including managing settings, but without full administrative control.
Write: Grants permission to push changes and manage issues and pull requests.
Roles like "Security" and "Delete" are not standard pre-defined roles, and "View" is generally referred to as "Read" in GitHub's permission structure.

NEW QUESTION # 120

Which GitHub tools or features is best to quickly modify a batch of files in a repository?

- A. Use github.dev from a web browser.
- B. Install and use GitHub Desktop.
- C. Install and use the git CLI.
- D. Install and use GitHub Mobile.
- E. Create and use a new GitHub Codespace.

Answer: B

Explanation:
GitHub Desktop: This is a graphical desktop application that provides an easy-to-use interface for managing your repositories. It allows you to perform bulk actions like staging multiple files or commits, which is useful for batch modifications.
Incorrect:
[Not B] Scripting is more time consuming.
GitHub CLI (Command Line Interface): The command line interface allows you to use powerful scripting to automate modifications across multiple files. For example, using commands like git add and git commit can help you stage and commit all changes at once.
