Docker Certified Associate (DCA) Exam Sample Questions (Q22-Q27):

NEW QUESTION # 22
Will this command display a list of volumes for a specific container?
Solution: docker volume inspect nginx'

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 23
Does this command display all the pods in the cluster that are labeled as 'env: development'?
Solution: 'kubectl get pods -I env=development'

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:

The command 'kubectl get pods -I env=development' will not display all the pods in the cluster that are labeled as 'env: development'. This is because the -I flag is not a valid option for kubectl get pods1. The correct flag to use is --selector or -l, which allows you to filter pods by labels2. Therefore, the correct command to display all the pods in the cluster that are labeled as 'env: development' is:

kubectl get pods --selector env=development or kubectl get pods -l env=development

Labels | Kube by Example

I hope this helps you understand the command and the label, and how they work with Kubernetes and pods. If you have any other questions related to Docker, please feel free to ask me.

The Kubernetes yaml shown below describes a networkPolicy.

Will the networkPolicy BLOCK this traffic?

Solution: a request issued from a pod bearing the tier: backend label, to a pod bearing the tier: frontend label

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 25

You are troubleshooting a Kubernetes deployment called api, and want to see the events table for this object.

Does this command display it?

Solution: kubectl logs deployment api

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: A

Explanation:

= The command kubectl logs deployment api does not display the events table for the deployment object, but rather the logs of the pods that belong to the deployment. To see the events table, you need to use the command kubectl describe deployment api, which shows the details of the deployment, including the events1. NEW QUESTION # 26

Is this a function of UCP?

Solution: scans images to detect any security vulnerability

- A. No
- B. Yes

Answer: B

Explanation:
= Scanning images to detect any security vulnerability is a function of UCP. UCP integrates with Docker Trusted Registry (DTR), which is a secure and scalable image storage solution1. DTR has a built-in image scanning feature that checks every layer of every image for known vulnerabilities and displays the results in the UCP web UI2. This helps users to identify and fix any security issues before deploying their applications. UCP also allows users to enforce security policies and only allow running applications that use images that are scanned and free of vulnerabilities3. Reference:
