- B. Surround the property with brackets: [property]
- C. Surround the property with curly braces and exclamation point: {{property}}
- D. Surround the property with an exclamation point and curly braces: {!property}

Answer: A

Explanation:

This syntax allows you to access the property value from the JavaScript class of the component and display it in the HTML template. The other options are incorrect because they either use invalid characters or do not follow the standard syntax for rendering a property in a Lightning web component template. ### NEW QUESTION # 211

NEW QUESTION # 212

Which two methods should a developer implement in a Lightning web component to successfully handle the subscription lifecycle of a Message Channel?

- A. stopListener()
- B. unsubscribe()
- C. startListener()
- D. Subscribe()

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

To handle the subscription lifecycle of a message channel in a Lightning web component, the developer should implement the subscribe() and unsubscribe() methods from the lightning/messageService module. The subscribe() method returns a subscription object that represents the connection to the message channel. The developer can use this object to unsubscribe from the message channel later. The unsubscribe() method takes a subscription object as a parameter and removes the listener from the message channel. The developer should call the unsubscribe() method when the component is disconnected from the DOM, such as in theDisconnectedCallback() lifecycle hook, to avoid memory leaks and performance issues.

The other options are not correct because:

B) stopListener() is not a valid method for handling the subscription lifecycle of a message channel. There is no such method in the lightning/messageService module or the Lightning web component framework.

C) startListener() is not a valid method for handling the subscription lifecycle of a message channel. There is no such method in the lightning/messageService module or the Lightning web component framework.

NEW QUESTION # 213

NEW QUESTION # 214

What is the fastest route to establishing the data needed for checkout development when setting up a new Store?

- A. Import a previously exported store archive
- B. Import the data with data loader
- C. Use sfdx setup scripts
- D. Select Add Sample Data when setting up the store

Answer: C

Explanation:

Option C is the correct answer because it describes the fastest route to establishing the data needed for checkout development when setting up a new store. The developer can use sfdx setup scripts to deploy a Lightning B2B testing environment that includes checkout flows, sample products, and a buyer. This way, the developer can quickly and easily test and customize the checkout flow using Experience Builder or Flow Builder. The other options are incorrect because they either require more time, manual steps, or additional tools to set up the data for checkout development. For example, importing a previously exported store archive or using data loader would require the developer to have access to the source data and the target org, and to map the fields and objects correctly. Selecting Add Sample Data when setting up the store would only provide a limited amount of data that may not be sufficient for checkout development.
