GARP Financial Risk and Regulation (FRR) Series Sample Questions (Q360-Q365):

NEW QUESTION # 360
The Treasury function of a bank typically manages all of the following components EXCEPT:

- A. Bank's liquidity
- B. Bank's performance estimates
- C. Bank's capital
- D. Bank's assets and liabilities

Answer: B

Explanation:
* Treasury Functions:
* Management of Assets and Liabilities: Treasury functions include managing the bank's balance sheet, which involves optimizing the mix of assets and liabilities.
* Management of Liquidity: Ensuring the bank has sufficient liquidity to meet its obligations.
* Management of Capital: Overseeing the capital adequacy to meet regulatory requirements and support the bank's operations and growth.
* Performance Estimates:
* Estimating and managing the bank's performance involves various departments, not typically the treasury function. Performance estimates would be more related to financial planning and analysis functions.

NEW QUESTION # 361
In the United States, during the second quarter of 2009, transactions in foreign exchange derivative contracts comprised approximately what proportion of all types of derivative transactions between financial institutions?

- A. 7%
- B. 2%
- C. 25%
- D. 43%

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 362
Which one of the following four global markets for financial assets or instruments is widely believed to be the most liquid?

- A. Foreign exchange market.
- B. Fixed income market
- C. Equity market.
- D. Commodities market

Answer: A

Explanation:
The foreign exchange market (forex or FX) is widely believed to be the most liquid financial market in the world. This market operates 24 hours a day and involves the highest volume of trading compared to other financial markets. The high liquidity is due to the significant volume of transactions conducted by various participants, including governments, financial institutions, corporations, and individual traders. The vast number of buyers and sellers ensures that trades can be executed quickly and at stable prices.

NEW QUESTION # 363

A proprietary trading desk for a large bank hedges an Arab light OTC forward position with Brent crude oil forwards. The trading desk benefits from using the most liquid OTC market to hedge, the market for the Brent crude, but hedging its using the Brent contract, exposes itself to the following type of risk:

- A. Term risk
- B. Correlation risk
- C. Basis risk
- D. Seasonality risk

Answer: C

Explanation:
When a proprietary trading desk hedges an Arab light OTC forward position with Brent crude oil forwards, they face basis risk. This is because the underlying commodities (Arab light and Brent crude oil) are different and may not move perfectly in sync, leading to a potential mismatch in the hedge.
ReferencesVerified based on the discussion of basis risk in commodity trading provided in the book "How Finance Works".
