Cisco Supporting Cisco Devices for Field Technicians Sample Questions (Q98-Q103):

NEW QUESTION # 98

Which command is used to specify the source for the Cisco IOS software image to load during the boot process?

- A. boot ios
- B. boot image
- C. boot system
- D. boot source

Answer: C

Explanation:

The `boot system` command is used in global configuration mode to specify the source and filename of the Cisco IOS software image that should be loaded during the device's boot process. This command ensures that the device loads a specific IOS image, whether it's stored locally in flash or fetched from a TFTP server.

Syntax example:

boot system flash:c1900-universalk9-mz.SPA.157-3.M3.bin

* `boot image`, `boot ios`, and `boot source` are invalid or non-existent in standard Cisco IOS.

NEW QUESTION # 99

Which management option is best suited for standalone Cisco Secure Firewall deployments?

- A. Cisco Secure Firewall Device Manager
- B. Cisco Security Manager
- C. Cisco Secure Firewall Management Center
- D. Cisco Defense Orchestrator

Answer: A

Explanation:

For standalone Cisco Secure Firewall deployments, the Cisco Secure Firewall Device Manager (FDM) is the most appropriate management option. FDM is a browser-based, on-box management tool that allows administrators to configure and manage a single firewall device without the need for external management infrastructure. It provides an intuitive interface for basic configurations, policy management, and monitoring.

In contrast:

* Cisco Secure Firewall Management Center (FMC) is designed for centralized management of multiple firewall devices.

* Cisco Defense Orchestrator (CDO) is a cloud-based solution for managing security policies across various devices.

* Cisco Security Manager is an older platform primarily used for managing ASA devices.

NEW QUESTION # 100

What is the purpose of the `packages.conf` file in Install mode on Cisco IOS XE Software supported switches?

- A. It is a subdirectory in flash memory where individual software packages are stored.
- B. It is used to extract the bin file during the installation process.
- C. It determines which software packages need to be loaded and in what order during boot up.
- D. It contains the entire bundled software image in a single file.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Install mode, the `packages.conf` file plays a crucial role in the boot process of Cisco IOS XE Software. It specifies the list of software packages to be loaded and the sequence in which they should be initialized during system startup. This file ensures that all necessary components are correctly loaded, providing a modular and flexible approach to software management.

Contrary to the other options:

- * The packages.conf file does not extract the bin file; it references already extracted packages.
- * It does not contain the entire bundled image; that's characteristic of Bundle mode.
- * While it resides in the flash memory, it is not a subdirectory but a configuration file.

NEW QUESTION # 101

Which protocol should be analyzed when troubleshooting call quality between IP phones?

- A. SCCP
- B. H.323
- C. RTP
- D. SIP

Answer: C

Explanation:

When addressing call quality issues between IP phones, the Real-time Transport Protocol (RTP) is the primary protocol to analyze. RTP is responsible for the actual transmission of voice data during a call, and its performance directly impacts call quality.

Key factors affecting RTP and, consequently, call quality include:

- * Packet Loss: Missing packets can lead to audio gaps.
- * Jitter: Variations in packet arrival times can cause choppy audio.
- * Latency: Delays in packet delivery can result in noticeable lag.

Analyzing RTP streams allows technicians to identify these issues and implement appropriate Quality of Service (QoS) measures to mitigate them.

In contrast:

- * SIP (Session Initiation Protocol): Handles call setup, modification, and teardown but not the media stream.
 - * SCCP (Skinny Client Control Protocol): A Cisco proprietary protocol for signaling, not media transport.
 - * H.323: An older protocol suite for multimedia communication, encompassing both signaling and media, but less commonly used in modern IP telephony.

NEW QUESTION # 102

Which deployment scenarios are Cisco 8000 Series routers primarily designed for?

- A. service provider and web-scale networks
- B. campus LAN access and distribution layers
- C. small business and home office networks
- D. remote branch offices and retail locations

Answer: A

Explanation:

Cisco 8000 Series routers are primarily designed for service provider and web-scale networks, offering high-performance routing capabilities to handle large-scale, high-bandwidth environments typically found in service provider infrastructures and data centers. The Cisco 8000 Series routers are part of Cisco's high-performance routing portfolio. As documented in the official Cisco product and FLDTEC study materials:

Cisco 8000 Series routers are purpose-built for service provider and cloud-scale data centers.

They are designed to support massive bandwidth, 5G core, and edge routing demands.

These routers provide scalable, high-performance architecture, using Cisco Silicon One ASICs, enabling terabits of throughput with advanced telemetry and network programmability.

Why the other options are incorrect:

A: Remote branches and retail typically use ISR/ASR 1000/1100 Series.

C: Home or small business networks use Cisco RV Series or Meraki MX Series.

D: LAN access/distribution layers in campuses commonly use Catalyst 9000 Series switches or ISR routers, not high-end core routers.

The 8000 Series is typically found in service provider core, data center interconnect, and hyperscale cloud deployments (e.g., Google, Meta, AWS).
