IIBA Certified business analysis professional (CBAP) application Sample Questions (Q200-Q205):

NEW QUESTION # 200

You need to identify assumptions as part of the assessment of capability gaps. Which of the following is an example of an assumption?

- A. The software must be compatible with the current operating system.

- B. All vendors must have security clearance.
- C. The project manager believes that her project team members can program in COBOL.
- D. The risk in the project must be quantified.

Answer: C

Explanation:

An assumption is something that is believed to be true or certain to happen, without proof. Assumptions are often used to fill in the gaps of incomplete or uncertain information, and they can affect the analysis of the current and future states. In this question, the project manager is assuming that her project team members have a certain skill, without verifying it. This is an example of an assumption that should be identified and validated as part of the assessment of capability gaps.

The other options are not assumptions, but rather:

- * B. A constraint, which is a restriction or limitation that affects the performance or outcomes of a project or solution.
- * C. A requirement, which is a condition or capability needed by a stakeholder to solve a problem or achieve an objective.
- * D. A risk, which is an uncertain event or condition that, if it occurs, has a positive or negative effect on one or more project or solution objectives.

NEW QUESTION # 204

You are the business analyst for a new project. Part of this project is for the project team to manually install new workstations through the company's campus. Based on your research you have determined that the project team can install 25 new workstations per hour. Since there is a fixed amount of time that these workstations need to be installed you are considering adding additional labor for the implementation. You are also considering to adjust the prioritization of the project requirements based on the amount of workstations the project team can install per hour.

What does the 25 workstations per hour represent in this scenario?

- A. Report project
- B. Planning
- C. Parametric estimate
- D. Timeboxing

Answer: C

Explanation:

A parametric estimate is an estimate that uses a mathematical formula or model to calculate the time, cost, or resources required for a project or activity based on historical data and known variables. In this scenario, the 25 workstations per hour represents a parametric estimate of the productivity of the project team, which can be used to determine the total duration and cost of the installation. A parametric estimate is usually more accurate and reliable than other estimation techniques, such as expert judgment or analogy, as it is based on objective and quantifiable data. References:
