ISTQB-Foundation Level Exam Sample Questions (Q212-Q217):

NEW QUESTION # 212

Which of the following applications will be the MOST suitable for testing by Use Cases

- A. A billing system used to calculate monthly charge based on large number of subscribers parameters
- B. The ability of an Anti virus package to detect and quarantine a new threat
- C. Suitability and performance of a Multi media (audio video based) system to a new operating system
- D. Accuracy and usability of a new Navigation system compared with previous system

Answer: D

Explanation:

A new navigation system compared with a previous system is the most suitable application for testing by use cases, because it involves a high level of interaction between the user and the system, and the expected behavior and outcomes of the system are based on the user's needs and goals. Use cases can help to specify the functional requirements of the new navigation system, such as the ability to enter a destination, select a route, follow the directions, receive alerts, etc. Use cases can also help to compare the accuracy and usability of the new system with the previous system, by defining the success and failure scenarios, the preconditions and postconditions, and the alternative flows of each use case. Use cases can also help to design and execute test cases that cover the main and exceptional paths of each use case, and to verify the satisfaction of the user's expectations.

The other options are not the most suitable applications for testing by use cases, because they do not involve a high level of interaction between the user and the system, or the expected behavior and outcomes of the system are not based on the user's needs and goals. A billing system used to calculate monthly charge based on a large number of subscriber parameters is more suitable for testing by data-driven testing, which is a technique for testing the functionality and performance of a system or component by using a large set of input and output data. The ability of an antivirus package to detect and quarantine a new threat is more suitable for testing by exploratory testing, which is a technique for testing the functionality and security of a system or component by using an informal and flexible approach, based on the tester's experience and intuition. The suitability and performance of a multimedia (audio video based) system to a new operating system is more suitable for testing by compatibility testing, which is a technique for testing the functionality and performance of a system or component by using different hardware, software, or network environments.

NEW QUESTION # 213

A company wants to reward each of its salespeople with an annual bonus that represents the sum of all the bonuses accumulated for every single sale made by that salesperson. The bonus for a single sale can take on the following four values: 3%, 5%, 7% and 10% (the percentage refers to the amount of the single sale). These values are determined on the basis of the type of customer (classified as "Basic" or "Premium") to which such sale was made, and on the amount of such sale classified into the following three groups G1, G2 and G3:

* [G1]: less than 300 euros

* [G2]: between 300 and 2000 euros

* [G3]: greater than 2000 euros

Which of the following is the minimum number of test cases needed to cover the full decision table associated with this scenario?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

Explanation:

The minimum number of test cases needed to cover the full decision table associated with this scenario is 6. This is because the decision table has 4 conditions (type of customer and amount of sale) and 4 actions (bonus percentage). The conditions have 2 possible values each (Basic or Premium, and G1, G2 or G3), so the total number of combinations is $2 \times 2 \times 2 \times 2 = 16$. However, not all combinations are valid, as some of them are contradictory or impossible. For example, a sale cannot be both less than 300 euros and greater than 2000 euros at the same time. Therefore, we need to eliminate the invalid combinations and keep only the valid ones. The valid combinations are:

Type of customer

Amount of sale

Bonus percentage

Basic

G1

3%

Basic

G2

5%

Basic

G3

7%

Premium

G1

5%

Premium

G2

7%

Premium

G3

10%

These 6 combinations cover all the possible values of the conditions and actions, and they are the minimum number of test cases needed to cover the full decision table.

NEW QUESTION # 214

Which ONE of the following work products TYPICALLY belongs to test execution?

- A. Test logs that document the results of test execution.
- B. Automated test scripts used for test execution.
- C. A list of test conditions prioritized during test analysis.
- D. A test plan that describes the test strategy and test objectives.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation:

Test execution involves running test cases and documenting results. Test logs (A) provide evidence of executed tests, failures, and actual outcomes. Automated test scripts (B) are part of test implementation, test plans (C) belong to test planning, and test conditions (D) are identified during test analysis.

NEW QUESTION # 215

A tester created a decision table(DT) given below. While reviewing the DT some of the actions for the given conditions were found to be incorrect. The user is trying to view the profile, which of the given conditions has CORRECT action(s) listed?

Condition	C1	C2	C3	C4
Is the user logged in?	Yes	Yes	No	No
Is the user authorized to view the profile?	Yes	No	Yes	No
Action
Display the user's profile	Yes	No	Yes	Yes
Display an error message	Yes	Yes	No	No

- A. C2
- B. C3
- C. C4
- D. C1

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 216

Which of the following is a CORRECT statement about how a tester should communicate about defects, test results, and other test information?

- A. Testers should reject all questions about their test findings and information
- B. Testers should take a command-and-control approach with the project team
- C. Testers should include personal opinions and judgements in defect reports and review findings
- D. Testers should emphasize the benefits of testing, such as increased quality and reduced risk

Answer: D

Explanation:

Communication from testers about defects, test results, and other test information should emphasize the benefits of testing such as increased quality and reduced risk. This positive framing helps in reinforcing the value of testing and ensuring stakeholders understand the contribution of testing to the overall project success (ISTQB not-for-profit association).
