Amazon AWS Certified Solutions Architect - Associate Sample Questions (Q551-Q556):

NEW QUESTION # 551

[Design High-Performing Architectures]

A company has deployed a server less application that invokes an AWS Lambda function when new documents are uploaded to an Amazon S3 bucket. The application uses the Lambda function to process the documents. After a recent marketing campaign, the company noticed that the application did not process many of the documents. What should a solutions architect do to improve the architecture of this application?

- A. Deploy an additional Lambda function. Load balance the processing of the documents across the two Lambda functions.
- B. Configure an S3 bucket replication policy. Stage the documents in the S3 bucket for later processing.
- C. Set the Lambda function's runtime timeout value to 15 minutes.
- D. Create an Amazon Simple Queue Service (Amazon SQS) queue. Send the requests to the queue. Configure the queue as an event source for Lambda.

Answer: D

Explanation:

To improve the architecture of this application, the best solution would be to use Amazon Simple Queue Service (Amazon SQS) to buffer the requests and decouple the S3 bucket from the Lambda function. This will ensure that the documents are not lost and can be processed at a later time if the Lambda function is not available. This will ensure that the documents are not lost and can be processed at a later time if the Lambda function is not available. By using Amazon SQS, the architecture is decoupled and the Lambda function can process the documents in a scalable and fault-tolerant manner.

NEW QUESTION # 552

A solutions architect must secure a VPC network that hosts Amazon EC2 instances. The EC2
