NEW QUESTION # 104

What can be done in the Reports section of the dataset navigation bar in UiPath Communication Mining?

- A. Train models using unsupervised learning.
- B. Access detailed, quervable charts, statistics, and customizable dashboards.
- C. View, save, and modify dataset model versions.
- D. Monitor model performance and receive recommendations.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Reports section of the dataset navigation bar in UiPath Communication Mining allows users to access detailed, quervable charts, statistics, and customizable dashboards that provide valuable insights and analysis on their communications data<sup>1</sup>. The Reports section has up to six tabs, depending on the data type, each designed to address different reporting needs<sup>2</sup>:

Dashboard: Users can create custom dashboard views using data from other tabs, such as label summary, trends, segments, threads, and comparison. Dashboards are specific to the dataset and can be edited, deleted, or renamed by users with the 'Modify datasets' permission<sup>3</sup>.

Label Summary: Users can view high-level summary statistics for labels, such as volume, precision, recall, and sentiment. Users can also filter by data type, source, date range, and label category.

Trends: Users can view charts for verbatim volume, label volume, and sentiment over a selected time period.

Users can also filter by data type, source, date range, and label category.

Segments: Users can view charts comparing label volumes to verbatim metadata fields, such as sender domain, channel, or language. Users can also filter by data type, source, date range, and label category.

Threads: Users can view charts of thread volumes and label volumes within a thread, if the data is in thread form, such as call transcripts or email chains. Users can also filter by data type, source, date range, and label category.

Comparison: Users can compare different cohorts of data against each other, such as different sources, time periods, or label categories. Users can also filter by data type, source, date range, and label category.

NEW QUESTION # 105

What is the definition of a UiPath Communications Mining data source?

- A. A user-permissioned project containing a taxonomy with labels and entities.
- B. A permissioned storage area within the platform which contains communications and labels.
- C. A collection of raw unlabeled communications data of a similar type, that can be associated with up to 10 datasets.
- D. The model that we create when training the platform to understand the data in those sources.

Answer: C

Explanation:

According to the UiPath documentation, a data source is a raw collection of verbatims, which are text-based communications such as survey responses, emails, transcripts, or calls<sup>1</sup>. A data source can be of a similar type and share a similar intended purpose, such as capturing customer feedback or servicing requests<sup>2</sup>. A data source can be added to up to 10 different datasets, which are collections of sources and labels that are used to train and evaluate ML models<sup>3</sup>. Therefore, the correct definition of a UiPath Communications Mining data source is A.

NEW QUESTION # 108

Which of the following is a best practice when choosing a UiPath ML (Machine Learning) Extractor?

- A. Consider the document types, language, and data quality when choosing an ML Extractor. It is important to select one that is specifically trained or optimized for the document types being processed. It is also important to take into account the quality and diversity of the training data used to train the ML Extractor to ensure accurate and reliable extraction results.
- B. The popularity of the ML Extractor among other UiPath users should be the primary factor when choosing a UiPath ML Extractor. Opt for the ML Extractor that has the highest number of downloads or positive reviews.
- C. The size of the ML Extractor is the most important factor to consider when choosing an ML Extractor. Bigger models always perform better and provide more accurate extraction results because the development team invested time and effort into creating the algorithm, which in turn will result in better performance for the trained model.
- D. The cost of the ML Extractor should be the main consideration when choosing an ML Extractor. Select the ML Extractor that offers the lowest price, regardless of its performance or suitability for the specific document understanding needs.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The ML Extractor is a data extraction tool that uses machine learning models provided by UiPath to identify and extract data from documents. The ML Extractor can work with predefined document types, such as invoices, receipts, purchase orders, and utility bills, or with custom document types that are trained using the Data Manager and the Machine Learning Classifier Trainer<sup>1,2</sup>.

According to the best practice, the ML Extractor should be chosen based on the document types, language, and data quality of the documents being processed. It is important to select an ML Extractor that is specifically trained or optimized for the document types that are relevant for the use case, as different document types may have different layouts, fields, and formats. It is also important to take into account the language of the documents, as some ML Extractors may support only certain languages or require specific language settings. Moreover, it is important to consider the quality and diversity of the training data used to train the ML Extractor, as this may affect the accuracy and reliability of the extraction results. The training data should be representative of the real-world data, and should cover various scenarios, variations, and exceptions<sup>3</sup>.
