NEW QUESTION # 67

Which policy purpose must be enabled when using the Protect Now option on the Protection Policies page for SAP HANA?

- A. Self-Service
- B. Centralized Protection
- C. Exclusion
- D. Application Aware

Answer: B

Explanation:

In PowerProtect Data Manager, SAP HANA protection is categorized into two distinct management workflows: Centralized and Self-Service.

* Centralized Protection: This policy type gives the PPDM administrator full control over the backup schedule, retention, and execution. When a policy is set to Centralized Protection, the "Protect Now" button becomes active in the PPDM UI. This allows the backup administrator to manually trigger an on-demand backup of the SAP HANA database directly from the PPDM console.

* Self-Service Protection: In this mode, the power is shifted to the Database Administrator (DBA).

Backups are initiated from the SAP HANA side (using HANA Studio, Cockpit, or HDBSQL) via the Backint interface. Because PPDM is not the "initiator" in this scenario, the "Protect Now" option in the PPDM UI is not applicable.

* Application Consistency: Regardless of the policy type, PPDM ensures that the SAP HANA database is placed in a consistent state during the backup via the integrated Backint agent. However, for administrative control via the PPDM interface, Centralized Protection is the required setting.
