- A. Only Notifications with the highest weight for the same record and recipients are sent
- B. The Weight value defaults to zero

The Weight field in an Email Notification determines which notification is sent when multiple notifications are triggered for the same record and recipients. Only the notification with the highest weight is sent. A weight value of zero means the notification is always sent when the notification's When to send criteria is met. A weight value of -1 means that no email should be sent<sup>3</sup>. References: Email Notification Weight

NEW QUESTION # 182

Which one of the following is NOT required to link a ServiceNow application to a Git repository?

- A. User name
- B. Password
- C. Application name
- D. URL

Answer: C

Explanation:

The application name is not required to link a ServiceNow application to a Git repository. You only need to provide the URL, user name, and password of the Git repository, as well as the branch name and the authentication type. The application name is automatically generated based on the scope name of your application. Reference: [Link an application to a Git repository]

NEW QUESTION # 183

ExportItem table is extended from Item table with the additional column of ItemCountry added. The Item table contains the columns ItemName and ItemQty.

Which fields are available in the ExportItem table?

- A. Only ItemCountry
- B. ItemName, ItemQty, and ItemCountry
- C. ItemCountry, Number
- D. Only ItemName, ItemQty

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 184

This script fragment is executed in an application: `g_user.hasRole('x_my_app_user')`; What is the logical evaluation of this script fragment?

- A. Method returns "False" if the currently logged in user has the `x_my_app_user` role only
- B. Method returns "True" if the currently logged in user has the `x_my_app_user` role only
- C. Method returns "True" if the currently logged in user has the `x_my_app_user` or the admin roles
- D. Method returns "False" if the currently logged in user has admin role

Answer: C

Explanation:

In ServiceNow, the admin role includes all other roles implicitly. So if a user has admin, `g_user.hasRole('any_role')` returns true.

From ServiceNow Docs - `g_user` API:

"The `hasRole()` method returns true if the user has the specified role or is an admin."

NEW QUESTION # 185

To see what scripts, reports, and other application artifacts will be in a published application:

- A. Examine the Application Files Related List in the application to be published
- B. Enter the name of the Application in the Global search field
- C. Open the artifact records individually to verify the value in the Application field
- D. Open the list of Update Sets for the instance

Answer: D

Explanation:

To see what scripts, reports, and other application artifacts will be in a published application, the best option is to examine the Application Files Related List in the application to be published. This will show all the application files that belong to the application, grouped by file type and scope. You can also filter, sort, or search the list to find specific files.

The following options are not the best ways to see what application artifacts will be in a published application:

* Enter the name of the Application in the Global search field. This will perform a global text search on the instance and return any records that match the application name, which may include irrelevant or incomplete results.

* Open the list of Update Sets for the instance. This will show all the update sets that have been created or imported on the instance, but not necessarily the ones that belong to the application to be published.

Update sets are used to move customizations between instances, not to publish applications to the ServiceNow Store or Share.

* Open the artifact records individually to verify the value in the Application field. This will require opening each record that may be part of the application and checking the Application field, which is tedious and error-prone. References: Publish an Application, Application Files
