ISACA Certified Data Privacy Solutions Engineer Sample Questions (Q188-Q193):

NEW QUESTION # 188

Which of the following is the MOST important privacy consideration for video surveillance in high security areas?

- A. Video surveillance recordings may only be viewed by the organization.
- B. Video surveillance data must be stored in encrypted format.
- C. Those affected must be informed of the video surveillance.
- D. There is no limitation for retention of this data.

Answer: C

Explanation:

One of the key principles of data protection is transparency, which means that individuals have the right to be informed about the collection and use of their personal data. This applies to video surveillance as well, especially in high security areas where the impact on privacy may be significant. Therefore, it is important to inform those affected by video surveillance about the purpose, scope, retention and access policies of the data collected.

NEW QUESTION # 189

Which key stakeholder within an organization should be responsible for approving the outcomes of a privacy impact assessment (PIA)?

- A. Data custodian
- B. Data processor
- C. Privacy data analyst
- D. Data owner

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 190

When using pseudonymization to prevent unauthorized access to personal data, which of the following is the MOST important consideration to ensure the data is adequately protected?

- A. The data must be stored in locations protected by data loss prevention (DLP) technology.
- B. The identifier must be kept separate and distinct from the data it protects.
- C. The key must be a combination of alpha and numeric characters.
- D. The data must be protected by multi-factor authentication.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Pseudonymization is a technique that replaces direct identifiers in a data set with pseudonyms or artificial identifiers that do not reveal the identity of the data subjects. Pseudonymization reduces the linkability of the data set with the original identity of the data subjects and thus enhances the privacy and security of the data. However, pseudonymization is not irreversible and the original identity can be re-established if the pseudonym or key is compromised. Therefore, it is important to keep the identifier separate and distinct from the data it protects and to apply additional security measures to safeguard the identifier. The other options are not relevant to pseudonymization1, p. 74-75 Reference: 1: CDPSE Review Manual (Digital Version)

NEW QUESTION # 191

An organization has a policy requiring the encryption of personal data if transmitted through email. Which of the following is the BEST control to ensure the effectiveness of this policy?

- A. Enforce annual attestation to policy compliance.
- B. Implement a data loss prevention (DLP) tool.
- C. Provide periodic user awareness training on data encryption.
- D. Conduct regular control self-assessments (CSAs).

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

A data loss prevention (DLP) tool is a software solution that monitors, detects and prevents the unauthorized transmission or leakage of sensitive data, such as personal data, from an organization's network or devices. A DLP tool can help to ensure the effectiveness of a policy requiring the encryption of personal data if transmitted through email, by applying the following controls:

Scanning the content and attachments of outgoing emails for personal data, such as names, email addresses, biometric data, IP addresses, etc.

Blocking or quarantining emails that contain unencrypted personal data, and alerting the sender and/or the administrator of the policy violation.

Encrypting personal data automatically before sending them through email, using encryption standards and algorithms that are compliant with data protection laws and regulations, such as the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) or the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA).

Generating audit logs and reports of email activities and incidents involving personal data, and providing visibility and accountability for policy compliance.

The other options are less effective or irrelevant to ensure the effectiveness of the policy. Providing periodic user awareness training on data encryption is a good practice, but it does not guarantee that users will follow the policy or know how to encrypt personal data properly. Conducting regular control self-assessments (CSAs) is a useful method to evaluate the design and operation of the policy, but it does not prevent or detect policy violations in real time. Enforcing annual attestation to policy compliance is a formal way to demonstrate user commitment to the policy, but it does not verify or measure the actual level of compliance.
