CrowdStrike Certified Cloud Specialist Sample Questions (Q164-Q169):

NEW QUESTION # 164
After identifying an account with unnecessary access privileges using the CrowdStrike CIEM/Identity Analyzer, what is the best action to mitigate risks?

- A. Delete all permissions for the account immediately.
- B. Implement the principle of least privilege by aligning permissions with the account's actual usage.
- C. Downgrade permissions to "read-only" for all resources.
- D. Transfer the account's permissions to a shared admin account for operational efficiency.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Option A: While "read-only" permissions reduce risk, this blanket approach might hinder required operations if the account needs more specific access. Permissions should match the actual usage needs.
Option B: Using shared accounts violates best practices for identity and access management (IAM). Shared accounts obscure accountability and increase the risk of privilege misuse.
Option C: Deleting permissions without assessing operational needs can disrupt workflows and lead to unintended downtime. A more measured approach is required.

Option D: The best approach to mitigate risks is to reduce the account's permissions to only what is necessary for its current activities. This minimizes the potential for misuse or exploitation while maintaining operational functionality.

NEW QUESTION # 165

What is the first step in summarizing IAM findings using CrowdStrike Cloud Infrastructure Entitlement Manager (CIEM)?

- A. Manually review all IAM policies across cloud environments.
- B. Conduct a manual penetration test to validate the findings.
- C. Use CIEM's Identity Analyzer to generate a findings summary, highlighting potential risks and misconfigurations.
- D. Export the CIEM report and analyze it using third-party software.

Answer: C

Explanation:
Option A: While penetration testing is a valuable security practice, it is not the first step in summarizing IAM findings. CIEM's Identity Analyzer is designed to provide immediate insights into IAM misconfigurations.
Option B: CIEM's Identity Analyzer automatically compiles and summarizes findings related to IAM configurations, such as overprivileged accounts, inactive users, and missing MFA. This summary provides actionable insights, allowing administrators to address security gaps efficiently without manual effort.
Option C: This approach is inefficient and error-prone, particularly in complex, multi-cloud environments. CIEM automates the process of identifying IAM issues, making manual reviews unnecessary.
Option D: While exporting data for further analysis can be useful, CIEM provides built-in tools to generate actionable summaries. Using third-party software adds unnecessary complexity and delays remediation.

NEW QUESTION # 166

Which component of Falcon Fusion is primarily responsible for automating responses to detected threats within a cloud environment?

- A. Threat Intelligence Orchestrator
- B. Event Correlation Dashboard
- C. Custom Alerts Manager
- D. Workflow Builder

Answer: D

Explanation:
Option A: The Workflow Builder is the core component of Falcon Fusion for designing and automating workflows. It enables administrators to define automated actions, such as isolating hosts, generating alerts, or notifying teams when threats are detected.
Option B: While this may sound relevant, the Threat Intelligence Orchestrator focuses on integrating and managing external intelligence feeds rather than automating responses to detected threats.
Option C: This dashboard provides insights into correlated events for analysis but does not facilitate automation of threat responses. It is a visualization and reporting tool rather than an active automation feature.
Option D: This tool allows administrators to manage and customize alerts based on specific threat criteria, but it does not automate responses. It is a configuration tool, not an automation component.

NEW QUESTION # 167

What is a key benefit of Falcon Cloud Security's integration of its components within a single platform?

- A. It provides a built-in firewall to secure cloud environments against external attacks.
- B. It reduces the need for manual threat analysis by leveraging AI-powered threat detection and response.
- C. It eliminates the need for traditional SIEM tools by storing all security logs in the Falcon platform.
- D. It allows for seamless encryption of all cloud data, ensuring compliance with GDPR and CCPA.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Option A: While encryption is a critical aspect of cloud security, Falcon Cloud Security does not perform data encryption. Instead, it provides unified visibility, detection, and protection across cloud workloads and environments.

Option B: Falcon Cloud Security integrates with SIEM tools to enhance security operations but does not replace them entirely. It collects telemetry and threat data, which can be shared with SIEM solutions for deeper analysis.

Option C: Falcon Cloud Security integrates AI and machine learning to automate threat detection and response, reducing the manual workload for security teams. This is a primary benefit of its unified platform approach.

Option D: Falcon Cloud Security is not a firewall. Instead, it focuses on endpoint protection, workload security, and threat detection, which complement network-based tools like firewalls.

NEW QUESTION # 168

A company wants to create a Falcon Sensor policy to enforce strict monitoring on critical servers.

What is an essential configuration step for the policy?

- A. Assign the policy to the "Default Group" to ensure global coverage.
- B. Add the policy under the "Sensor Exclusions" tab in the Falcon Console.
- C. Set the policy mode to "Detection Only" for all servers.
- D. Configure prevention settings such as "Exploit Mitigation" and "Malware Prevention" for the policy.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Option A: Configuring prevention settings like "Exploit Mitigation" and "Malware Prevention" is critical to enhance security on servers. These settings help the Falcon Sensor proactively block threats and secure the system.

Option B: The "Sensor Exclusions" tab is for excluding specific files, paths, or processes from monitoring, not for creating or applying policies.

Option C: Assigning to the "Default Group" might lead to unintended policy application across non-critical systems. Policies should target specific groups for better control.

Option D: While "Detection Only" provides visibility, it does not actively prevent threats. For critical servers, enabling prevention is more appropriate to mitigate risks.
