CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 2 Sample Questions (Q18-Q23):

NEW QUESTION # 18

Which of the following is used in addition to a password to implement MFA?

- A. Prompting the user to solve a simple math problem
- B. Verifying the user's date of birth
- C. Sending a code to the user's phone
- D. Requiring the user to enter a PIN

Answer: C

Explanation:

Multi-factor authentication (MFA) combines at least two of the following factors: something you know (password), something you have (a phone-generated or SMS-delivered one-time code), and something you are (biometric). Sending a code to the user's phone provides a "something you have" factor in addition to the password.

NEW QUESTION # 19

A technician reviews an organization's incident management policy. The organization uses a third-party vendor with multiple tools to protect its assets. What service type is this?

- A. EDR
- B. PaaS
- C. MDR
- D. XDR

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

Managed Detection and Response (MDR) involves outsourcing security monitoring to a third-party that uses multiple tools and analytics.

From Travis Everett - All-in-One Exam Guide:

"MDR providers handle threat detection and response using a combination of advanced tools, analytics, and expert personnel."

NEW QUESTION # 20

A user's PC is performing slowly after the user clicked on a suspicious email attachment. The technician notices that a single process is taking 100% of RAM, CPU, and network resources.

Which of the following should the technician do first?

- A. Educate the user about cybersecurity best practices
- B. Disconnect the computer from the network
- C. Reboot the computer
- D. Run an antivirus scan

Answer: B

Explanation:

The technician should disconnect the computer from the network (Option B) first to prevent any further spread of the infection or data loss. Once the machine is isolated from the network, the technician can safely investigate the malware without risking infection to other systems.

NEW QUESTION # 21

NEW QUESTION # 22

A user reports that after clicking on a "security warning" pop-up while browsing the web on their smartphone, they are now frequently seeing advertisements for "optimization tools." Additionally, the user notices the phone's battery is draining much faster than usual. Which of the following is the BEST first step for a technician to take to resolve this issue?

- A. Replace the SIM card and modify the network settings.
- B. Enable airplane mode and restart the smartphone.
- C. Clear the smartphone 's browser cache and uninstall unknown applications.
- D. Perform a factory reset on the smartphone.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The symptoms point to malicious or rogue content : frequent "security warning" pop-ups that push "tools" is a classic sign of scam/rogue apps, and the new fast battery drain suggests an unwanted process running in the background. The CompTIA objectives explicitly list mobile security symptoms such as "high number of ads,"

"fake security warnings," and "unexpected application behavior," which aligns with this scenario. On the browser side, Quentin Docter notes that if you continually receive pop-ups or overlays, "you may be infected with malware," and recommends scanning with antivirus/antimalware software. He also explains that clearing browsing data/cache is sometimes necessary to resolve browser-related problems and details how to clear cache/browsing data.

Because the user tapped the pop-up and then battery life worsened, the best practical fix is to remove the likely malicious application(s) (uninstall unknown apps) and clear browser cache to eliminate stored site data

/scripts fueling the pop-ups. A factory reset is a stronger last resort, but least disruptive remediation is A.
