NEW QUESTION # 45
Which one of the following controls the voltage produced at the output of the alternator?

- A. Voltage Regulator
- B. Voltage Backup Device
- C. Voltage Meter
- D. Voltage Stabilizer

Answer: A

Explanation:
A voltage regulator controls the voltage produced at the output of the alternator. It's a device that maintains the output voltage of an alternating current (AC) power source within a safe range. The voltage regulator compares the actual output voltage to the desired voltage level and adjusts the voltage accordingly.
Voltage Meter, Voltage Stabilizer, and Voltage Backup Device are not devices that control the voltage produced at the output of the alternator. They are different types of equipment and have different functions.
A voltage meter is a device used to measure the voltage in an electrical circuit. A voltage stabilizer is an electronic device that maintains a constant voltage level. A voltage backup device is a device that provides temporary backup power in case of an electrical outage.

NEW QUESTION # 46
AC is more easily distributed than DC. This is because:

- A. AC can be transmitted using lighter wires.
- B. DC needs wires to be totally insulated, while AC wires can be bare, hung from insulator on pylons.
- C. Wires have less resistance if they are carrying AC
- D. AC can be transformed from a low voltage to a high voltage and back again with a transformer. DC cannot.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Explanation
AC can be transformed from a low voltage to a high voltage and back again with a transformer, while DC cannot. This makes it easier to distribute AC electricity over long distances and is why it is used more widely than DC electricity. A and B are also true, as wires carrying AC can be bare and don't need to be totally insulated. Wires have less resistance when carrying AC electricity, which is why it is more efficient than DC.

NEW QUESTION # 47

Which one of the following is an advantage of Air Cooled Self-Contained System?

- A. Lowest installation cost
- B. All components contain more than one unit
- C. It doesn't requires ductwork and/or dropped ceiling
- D. It has more heat removal capacity per unit

Answer: C

Explanation:
Air cooled self-contained systems are highly efficient and do not require ductwork and/or dropped ceiling for installation. This makes them a great choice for locations where installation costs are a major factor, such as in residential applications, or in places with limited space. Additionally, air cooled self-contained systems have more heat removal capacity per unit compared to water cooled systems, making them more cost- effective in the long run.
