問題 #99

U+ Bank's marketing department currently promotes various home loan offers to qualified customers. Now, the bank does not want to show offers on a customer's account page if the customer has already received three home loan offers in the last two weeks. What do you need to define to implement the business requirement?

- A. Volume constraints
- B. Applicability rules
- C. Suppression policy
- D. Customer contact limits

答案： C

解題說明:

A suppression policy allows you to define conditions that prevent customers from receiving an action or a group of actions. You can use a suppression policy to implement the requirement that customers do not see home loan offers on their account page if they have already received three home loan offers in the last two weeks. You can configure the suppression policy to suppress the home loan group based on the number of times the customer received any action from that group in the past 14 days. Applicability rules are used to determine whether an action is relevant for a customer based on their profile or context, not based on the number of times they received an action. Customer contact limits are used to limit the number of times a customer can be contacted per channel per time period, not based on the number of times they received an action. Volume constraints are used to limit the number of times an action is presented to customers across one or more channels, not based on the number of times they received an action. 問題 #100

U+ Bank uses the always-on outbound approach to send outbound messages on different channels such as email, SMS, and push notifications. There are a variety of action flow patterns in use to meet various business and channel integrations requirements. Due to technical reasons, the bank wants to temporarily suspend sending outbound messages and instead write the selected customers and action details to a database table for later offline processing. What is the most efficient way to meet this requirement?

- A. Update the Send shape with Finalization.
- B. Add a new Send shape in all the action flows.
- C. Bypass action flow processing.
- D. Set up a secondary schedule.

答案： C

問題 #101

The following decision strategy outputs the most profitable shoe a retailer can sell. The profit is the selling Prices of the shoe, minus the Cost to acquire the shoe.

The details of the shoes are provided in the following table:

The details of the shoes are provided in the following table:

To output the most profitable shoe, which component do you add in the blank space that is highlighted in red?

- A. Decision table
- B. Prioritize
- C. Group By
- D. Filter

答案: B

解題說明:

To output the most profitable shoe, you need to add a Prioritize component in the blank space. A Prioritize component allows you to rank actions based on one or more properties. In this case, you can rank the shoes based on the Profit property and select the highest ranked shoe as the output. Verified Reference: Pega Academy - Decisioning Consultant - Prioritizing actions
