What advice would you provide? (choose the best answer)

- A. The level of agility is proportionate to the number of teams doing Scrum.
- B. The improvement in customer outcomes.
- C. The number of projects delivered on-time, on-budget, and on-scope will increase.
- D. All of the above.
- E. The average team velocity will continuously improve.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 25

Who is responsible for the Sprint Backlog?

- A. The Product Owner.
- B. The Scrum Master.
- C. The Developers.
- D. The Scrum Team.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Sprint Backlog is one of the three Scrum artifacts, alongside the Product Backlog and the Increment. It is a dynamic plan that contains:

- * The selected Product Backlog items for the Sprint.
- * A plan for delivering the Increment and achieving the Sprint Goal.

* The tasks and work needed to complete the selected items.

The Scrum Guide explicitly states that the Sprint Backlog is owned and managed solely by the Developers.

Analysis of Answer Choices:

* Option A: The Developers (Correct)

* The Developers create, maintain, and update the Sprint Backlog throughout the Sprint.

* They have full ownership over their work and the plan required to meet the Sprint Goal.

* As self-managing professionals, only the Developers decide how to accomplish their work.

* Option B: The Scrum Master (Incorrect)

* The Scrum Master is a servant leader and coach, not responsible for managing the Sprint Backlog.

* They help the Scrum Team understand and follow Scrum practices, but they do not own or control artifacts.

* Option C: The Product Owner (Incorrect)

* The Product Owner manages the Product Backlog, ensuring it is prioritized to maximize value.

* However, they do not dictate how work is done in a Sprint or modify the Sprint Backlog.

* Option D: The Scrum Team (Incorrect)

* While the Scrum Team (Developers, Product Owner, and Scrum Master) collaborates, the Sprint Backlog belongs exclusively to the Developers.

Key Scrum Guide Principles Supporting This answer:

* "The Sprint Backlog is a plan by and for the Developers. It is highly visible, real-time, and should be adapted as needed throughout the Sprint. "

* "Only the Developers can change the Sprint Backlog during a Sprint. " Conclusion:

The Developers are fully responsible for the Sprint Backlog. They create, modify, and own the plan to meet the Sprint Goal, ensuring agility and self-management.

NEW QUESTION # 26

Which of the following statements is true about the Product Vision?

(choose the best answer)

- A. It must be completely free from discussions about strategic technology choices.
- B. It evolves as the Scrum Team learns more about customers and their needs.
- C. It is the shared responsibility of the Scrum Team to develop and evolve.
- D. None of the above.
- E. All of the above.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option A is the best answer because it reflects the agile and empirical nature of Scrum and Product Ownership. The Product Vision is a concise and inspiring statement that describes the purpose, direction, and value proposition of the product¹. The Product Vision is not a fixed or static document, but rather an emergent and dynamic one that adapts to the changing environment, needs, and feedback. The Product Owner is accountable for creating and communicating the Product Vision to the Scrum Team and the stakeholders². The Product Owner collaborates with the Scrum Team and the stakeholders to inspect and adapt the Product Vision based on the new insights, opportunities, and learnings that arise from the changing environment³. The Product Owner also uses various techniques, such as product discovery, user research, market analysis, and experiments, to validate and refine the Product Vision⁵.

Option B is not the best answer because it contradicts the accountability of the Product Owner. The Product Owner is the sole person responsible for managing the Product Backlog and maximizing the value of the product and the work of the Scrum Team. The Product Owner is also the sole person responsible for creating and communicating the Product Vision to the Scrum Team and the stakeholders². The Product Owner may seek input and feedback from the Scrum Team and the stakeholders, but the final decision and authority on the Product Vision belongs to the Product Owner. The Scrum Team and the stakeholders are not accountable for developing and evolving the Product Vision, but they are expected to understand and support it.

Option C is not the best answer because it contradicts the reality and complexity of product development. The Product Vision is not a technical specification, but rather a strategic and business-oriented statement that guides the development of the product¹. The Product Vision does not prescribe how the product should be built, but rather why and what the product should achieve. However, the Product Vision is not completely detached from the technical aspects of the product, as the technology choices may have an impact on the feasibility, desirability, and viability of the product. The Product Owner should be aware of the strategic technology choices and their implications, and discuss them with the Development Team and the stakeholders, as part of the product discovery and validation process.
