Scrum Professional Scrum Product Owner II Sample Questions (Q13-Q18):

NEW QUESTION # 13

You are the Product Owner at a small company with a single product. You have authority over pricing, promotion, and how much is invested in new features or capabilities.

Your product has:

* High Current Value - as indicated by high customer satisfaction.

* High Unrealized Value - as indicated by low market share.

Using those two data points, what is the first action you should take to increase the business performance of the product? (choose the best answer)

- A. Release an identical product to market, but give it a new product name.
- B. Increase the number of product features to attract a greater number of customers.
- C. Drop the price for the product to attract a greater number of customers.
- D. Improve the marketing of the product to attract a greater number of customers.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 14

What is typical work for a Product Owner in a Sprint?

(choose the best two answers)

- A. Update the work plan for the Developers on a daily basis.
- B. Create financial reporting upon the spent hours reported by the Developers.
- C. Attend every Daily Scrum to answer functional questions about the Sprint Backlog.
- D. Work with the Developers on Product Backlog refinement.
- E. Collaborate with stakeholders, user communities and other Product Owners.

Answer: D,E

Explanation:

As a Product Owner, you are accountable for maximizing the value of the product and the work of the Scrum Team. To do this, you need to collaborate with various stakeholders, user communities and other Product Owners to understand their needs, expectations and feedback, and to align them with the product vision and strategy. You also need to work with the Developers on Product Backlog refinement, which is an ongoing activity to add detail, estimates and order to Product Backlog items. This helps the Developers to understand what is valuable and feasible to deliver in the upcoming Sprints, and to plan and execute their work accordingly. These are typical and essential work for a Product Owner in a Sprint.

The other options are not typical or effective work for a Product Owner in a Sprint. Attending every Daily Scrum is not necessary, as the Daily Scrum is an event for the Developers to inspect their progress and plan their next steps. The Product Owner can attend the Daily Scrum if invited by the Developers, but should not interfere or answer questions that are not related to the Sprint Goal or the Product Backlog. Creating financial reporting upon the spent hours reported by the Developers is not a valuable activity, as it does not reflect the outcome or the value delivered by the product. It also goes against the Scrum values of trust and respect, as it implies that the Developers are not self-managing or committed to their work. Updating the work plan for the Developers on a daily basis is also not a good practice, as it undermines the autonomy and creativity of the Developers, and reduces their ability to inspect and adapt their work based on the empirical evidence. The Product Owner should not tell the Developers how to do their work, but rather focus on what is the most valuable outcome for the product.
