NEW QUESTION # 44

An Administrator has automated the rebuild of a store search index. The solution uses a trigger and a custom metadata value. Each time a product record is created or updated it increments a metadata counter value. If the counter value is divisible by 5, then the rebuild search index functionality is started using an API call. The automation has worked until today. In the past 10 minutes, 80 products have been updated. The B2B Store Manager complains that the store search results are out of date. The product changes are missing in the search results.

What could be the cause of this issue?

- A. The automation is triggering the search index rebuild too often. The store search index should not be rebuilt more than five times per hour.
- B. The automation is working as designed. The B2B Store Manager needs to login again to the store to see results of the updated search index.
- C. The automation is triggering the search index rebuild too often. The store search index should not be rebuilt more than 10 times per day.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The issue with the search index not reflecting recent product updates could be due to the automation triggering the search index rebuild too frequently. If the store search index is rebuilt more than five times per hour, as suggested in option (C), it can lead to performance issues and delays in updating the search results. This frequency can overwhelm the system, leading to a queue of rebuild operations that can't be processed in a timely manner, causing the search results to become outdated despite the updates to product records.
