Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 160
A startup company wants to use a CRM application to manage its sales and support organizations. The company does not have any IT staff. Which of the following cloud computing models is MOST appropriate for this company to use?

- A. CaaS
- B. PaaS
- C. SaaS
- D. IaaS

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 161
A low-budget project with a flexible completion time can become financially feasible via the use of:

- A. resource tagging.
- B. spot instances.
- C. reserved instances.
- D. right-sizing.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Spot instances are instances that use spare cloud capacity that is available for less than the On-Demand price. They are suitable for low-budget projects that can tolerate interruptions and have flexible completion time. Spot instances can be reclaimed by the cloud provider when the demand for the capacity increases, so they are not guaranteed to run continuously. However, they can offer significant cost savings compared to other pricing models. NEW QUESTION # 163
Following a risk assessment, a company decides to adopt a multicloud strategy for its IT applications. Which of the following is the company trying to avoid as part of its risk mitigation strategy?

- A. Vendor lock-in
- B. Data sovereignty
- C. High availability
- D. Geo-redundancy

Answer: B

Explanation:
A company that adopts a multicloud strategy for its IT applications is trying to avoid vendor lock-in as part of its risk mitigation strategy. Vendor lock-in is a situation where the customer becomes dependent on a single cloud provider and faces high switching costs and technical challenges if they want to migrate to another provider. Vendor lock-in can limit the customer's flexibility, choice, and control over their IT resources and expose them to the risks of service degradation, price increases, or vendor lockout12. A multicloud strategy is an approach that uses multiple cloud providers for different IT applications, based on the best fit for each workload. A multicloud strategy can help the customer avoid vendor lock-in by reducing their reliance on any single provider, increasing their bargaining power, and enabling them to leverage the best features and services from different providers34.
