(Q109-Q114):

NEW QUESTION # 109
A nonprofit wants to migrate millions of Contact records from a legacy system. Most records fail to import with the following error: "npsp.TDTM_Address: System.LimitException: Apex CPU time limit exceeded".
Which three actions could a consultant take to successfully import this data?
Choose 3 answers

- A. Reduce the batch size significantly when addresses are included.
- B. Disable 'ADDR_Addresses_TDTM' Handler in Trigger Configuration.
- C. Check 'User Managed' on the Address TDTM record.
- D. Enable "Simple Address Change Treated as Update' in Address Settings.
- E. Disable all automation and load the Address object separately.

Answer: A,B,E

Explanation:
When migrating millions of Contact records and encountering the error "npsp.TDTM_Address: System.LimitException: Apex CPU time limit exceeded," you can take the following actions:
Disable Automation:
Go to NPSP Settings.
Navigate to "TDTM" (Table Driven Trigger Management).
Disable all automation triggers temporarily to ensure they do not interfere with the data load process.
Load Address Object Separately:
Split the data load into two parts: first load Contacts without address data, then load address data separately.
This reduces the complexity and processing required for each batch.
Disable ADDR_Addresses_TDTM Handler:
In NPSP Settings, go to "Trigger Configuration."
Locate the 'ADDR_Addresses_TDTM' handler.
Disable this specific handler to prevent it from executing during the data import process.
Reduce Batch Size:
When using Data Loader or any import tool, set the batch size to a significantly lower number (e.g., 100 or 200 records per batch).
This helps in managing CPU limits and ensures smoother processing.
By following these steps, you can mitigate the Apex CPU time limit issue and successfully import large volumes of data into NPSP.

A system admin uploaded a .CSV file using the Data Import Wizard with the NPSP Data Importer. The Mailing Street address field was mapped, but the admin noticed the field was Wizard on all of the records after the import completed.
What is a likely cause?

- A. There were validation rules for the missing field.
- B. The column contained incomplete data.
- C. The mapped Salesforce ID was inappropriate for the record type.
- D. There were more than 65 columns in the CSV file.

Answer: B

Explanation:
When using the Data Import Wizard with the NPSP Data Importer and noticing that the Mailing Street address field was missing on all records after import, one likely cause is incomplete data in the CSV file. Here' s a detailed explanation:
* Check the CSV File:
* Open the CSV file that was uploaded.
* Verify if the Mailing Street address column contains complete and properly formatted data for all rows.
* Ensure Completeness:
* Ensure that there are no missing values or improperly formatted addresses in the Mailing Street column.
* Even a single missing value can cause the entire column to be skipped during import.
* Re-import Data:
* Correct any incomplete or missing data in the CSV file.
* Use the Data Import Wizard again to re-import the corrected file.
* Verify Field Mappings:
* During the import process, ensure that the Mailing Street field is correctly mapped to the appropriate Salesforce field.
