HPE Network Switching Associate Exam Sample Questions (Q42-Q47):

NEW QUESTION # 42

You are testing a Captive Portal for wired guest access and are seeing the self-signed certificate warning below.

Which statement is true?

- A. The self-signed CA should be imported into the trust store.
- B. An enterprise CA signed certificate should be deployed.
- C. A public CA signed certificate should be deployed.
- D. HTTPS should be disabled, and HTTP should be used instead.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The correct answer is A. A public CA signed certificate should be deployed. The browser warning appears because the captive portal is presenting a self-signed certificate that the client device does not trust. For guest access, client devices are usually unmanaged and cannot be expected to already trust an internal or self-signed certificate authority. HPE Aruba Networking documentation for captive portal deployments recommends that production environments obtain and install a certificate issued for the site or domain by a well-known Certificate Authority. This avoids browser trust warnings and gives guest users confidence that they are connecting to the correct portal. Option B is incorrect because disabling HTTPS and using HTTP would reduce security and expose portal traffic. Option C may work only for managed devices where the self-signed or private CA can be pushed into the trust store, but that is not practical for open wired guest access. Option D can be valid for internal managed users, but for guests, a public trusted CA certificate is the best answer.

NEW QUESTION # 43

A Solutions Architect is explaining the management architecture of HPE Aruba Networking CX switches to a customer. A key feature mentioned is the separation of the management plane from the data plane.

What is the primary benefit of having a separate out-of-band management (OOBM) port? (Select all that apply.)

- A. It is the only port that can be used to connect to Aruba Central.
- B. It simplifies the IP addressing scheme by removing the need for an IP address on data VLANs.
- C. It provides a higher bandwidth connection for management than the front-panel ports.
- D. It allows management access to the switch even if the data plane (front-panel ports) is experiencing issues like a broadcast storm or a DoS attack.
- E. It creates a physically separate and more secure network for management traffic, isolated from the production user traffic.

Answer: D,E

NEW QUESTION # 44

At which layer of the OSI model does data segmentation occur?

- A. Transport Layer
- B. Application Layer
- C. Network Layer
- D. Data Link Layer

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is B. Transport Layer. Data segmentation is a Transport Layer function. At Layer 4, protocols such as TCP divide application data into smaller pieces called segments so that data can be transported between endpoints. The Transport Layer also uses TCP and UDP port numbers to identify application conversations between hosts. HPE Aruba Networking AOS-CX ACL documentation references TCP/UDP ports as Layer 4 ports, which aligns transport-layer port usage with the Transport Layer. The Application Layer provides user-facing application services, but it does not perform transport segmentation. The Network Layer handles logical IP addressing and routing. The Data Link Layer handles Ethernet framing, MAC addressing, and local delivery on a network segment. Therefore, when the question asks where data segmentation occurs in the OSI model, the correct answer is the Transport Layer. (arubanetworking.hpe.com)

NEW QUESTION # 45

Which of the statements below accurately describe link state routing protocols? (Select two)

- A. They can be used to route packets inside an Autonomous System
- B. They can be used to route packets between Autonomous Systems.
- C. OSPFv2 is a very popular choice for Exterior Gateway Protocol-based routing.
- D. They are more scalable than protocols like RIP.
- E. They use a Distance Vector algorithm.

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 46

A network technician is tasked with monitoring the health of an HPE Aruba Networking CX 6300 switch. They suspect high CPU utilization might be impacting performance. The technician needs to view a real-time, continuously updating list of the top processes consuming CPU resources.

Which command should the technician use to get this real-time view?

- A. `show system resource-utilization`
- B. `show events -d cpu`
- C. `show cpu`
- D. `top cpu`

Answer: D
