NEW QUESTION # 100

An engineer is troubleshooting an upgrade failure on a switch. Which action resolves the issue?

- A. Save the system image in NVRAM.
- B. Load a new system image.
- C. Use the same system image as the kickstart image.
- D. Reload the same system image.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Cisco troubleshooting logic supports Use the same system image as the kickstart image as the required fix. In this question the symptoms point to Save, NVRAM, Use, Load, and the defect is best handled by correcting the exact control-plane or consistency condition. Nexus platforms can show interfaces or peers as configured while still refusing to forward traffic if a vPC Type-1 parameter, VLAN allowance, MTU, HSRP version, EVPN route, or routing attribute is wrong. Cisco methodology is to avoid broad resets unless the state machine is stuck; instead, correct the mismatched parameter and verify that the resulting operational state becomes stable. The other choices do not remove the root cause, or they modify a setting that is not used by the failing protocol exchange. After the change, the engineer should review the peer status, route or MAC table, and counters for drops or inconsistency messages. That sequence proves that the network fabric is fixed, not merely restarted.

NEW QUESTION # 101

Refer to the exhibit.

```

ACME-5K-A(config-vsan-db) # sh int fc2/16

fc2/16 is down (Inactive)
  Port description is UplinkTo_MDS-A_1/6
  Hardware is Fibre Channel, SFP is short wave laser w/o OFC (SN)
  Port WWN is 20:50:00:2a:6a:98:bc:80
  Admin port mode is E, trunk mode is auto snmp link state traps are enabled
  Port vsan is 1
  Receive data field Size is 2112
  Beacon is turned off

```

The connection between a Cisco Nexus 5548UP switch and a Cisco MDS switch fails to initialize. What is the cause of the issue?

- A. Trunk mode must be activated.
- B. VSAN 1 is suspended.
- C. The SFP is unsupported.
- D. The interface is in an incorrect mode.

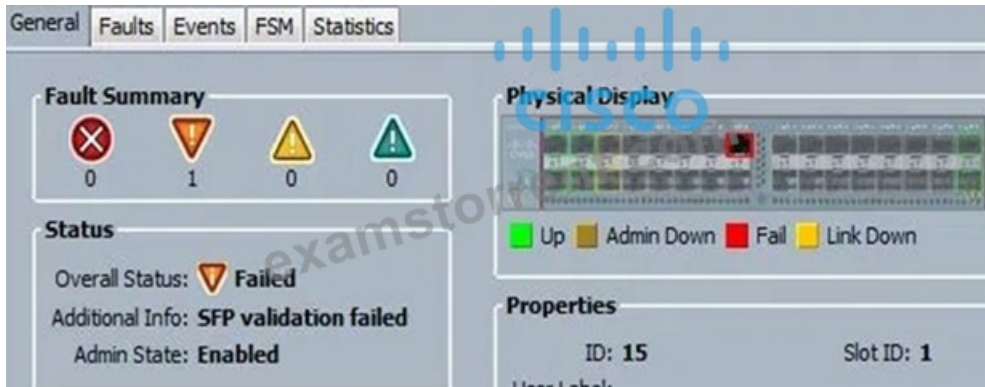

Answer: B

Explanation:

The selected resolution is VSAN 1 is suspended because the failure is in the Fibre Channel/FCoE control path around MDS, VSAN, Cisco Nexus. Cisco MDS and Nexus platforms separate configuration from operational state: a VSAN, zone, vFC binding, device alias, or port-security entry can exist in configuration but still fail if it is not active, correctly merged, or allowed on the link. The correct option addresses the fabric condition that prevents communication. The incorrect options are technically adjacent but would not repair the specific dependency; for example, changing unrelated databases or resetting ports without correcting policy leaves the same failure to recur. Cisco SAN troubleshooting therefore starts with port role and VSAN checks, then confirms fabric services such as fcdomain, FSPF, zoning, fabric binding, and name-server information. The expected validation is that the port becomes operational, the initiator and target appear in the appropriate databases, and permitted zone members can communicate.

NEW QUESTION # 102

Refer to the exhibit.

When an engineer inserts 8-Gb FC SFP port 15 on a Cisco UCS Fabric Interconnect, the port fails. What is a possible cause of the issue?

- A. Port 15 is missing a license.
- B. Port 15 is configured as an Ethernet port.
- C. The polarity of the fiber cable is reversed.
- D. Port 15 is configured for 4-Gb FC.

Answer: D
