Adobe Experience Manager DevOps Engineer Expert Sample Questions (Q113-Q118):

NEW QUESTION # 113

What is the primary purpose of the Cloud Manager deployment pipeline in AEM as a Cloud Service?

- A. To enable real-time content authoring across multiple instances
- B. To manage caching rules for the Dispatcher
- C. To automate the build, test, and deployment of AEM applications
- D. To configure user permissions and replication agents

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 114

A customer is using the Content Transfer Tool (CTT) to migrate Assets to AEM as a Cloud Service. The timeline of the activity streams for all assets must be migrated, including all Publish and Unpublish tasks.

What should the DevOps engineer do when creating the migration set?

- A. Include versions and add /var/audit/com.day.cq.replication.
- B. Include Mapping from IMS Users and Groups and add /var/audit.
- C. Include Mapping from IMS Users and Groups and add /dam/content. Include versions and include path /var/audit.
- D. Include versions and include path /var/audit.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When configuring the Content Transfer Tool (CTT), DevOps engineers can specify exact JCR paths to migrate. While the general /var/audit path contains various system logs, the prompt explicitly asks to migrate "Publish and Unpublish tasks." In AEM, these specific replication events (activity streams related to activation) are stored exactly under the /var/audit/com.day.cq.replication path. Adobe certification exams test for this level of granularity, making the most specific path the correct "Expert" choice over the broader /var/audit root.

NEW QUESTION # 115

When setting up an AEM instance, an OSGi configuration needs to be applied that cannot be changed at runtime. How can the DevOps Engineer achieve this requirement?

- A. The configuration must be set in the web console and will be picked up after the instance restarts.
- B. An OSGi configuration file must be present in the install folder.
- C. A content package containing the OSGi configuration should be embedded in the Quickstart jar.
- D. The properties of the OSGi config must be passed using system properties to the Quickstart on startup.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 116

Three weeks ago, a P3 ticket was closed. The ticket contains all pertinent information about the issue and the corresponding resolution. Today, the exact issue is happening. The resolution is not working. What should the DevOps engineer do?

- A. Escalate via the Actions section.
- B. Open a new ticket.
- C. Reopen the same ticket.

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to Adobe Support ticketing protocols, once a ticket has been marked as resolved and successfully closed (especially after a prolonged period like three weeks), it cannot be re-opened or escalated. The system locks closed tickets. Even if the symptoms appear identical, a recurrence requires the engineer to open a brand new ticket. They should reference the old ticket number in the new ticket's description so the support team can review the historical context and previous resolutions.

NEW QUESTION # 117

A DevOps engineer is managing an AEM as a Cloud Service Sites environment for a customer. They are in the final stages of going live and only have a couple of release candidates to go. During regular testing using an on-premise code quality check, all requirements were passed. Running the pipeline and a deployment to the AEM as a Cloud Service instances shows that the code quality check did not pass.

The code flagged, which produces the following issue:

@Property(label = "Service Password", value = "mysecretpassword")
private static final String PROP_SERVICE_PASSWORD = "password";

What should the DevOps engineer do?

- A. Modify the pipeline configuration to allow static passwords
- B. Inform the development team and ask them to remove the password
- C. Suppress the warning in Cloud Manager using @SuppressWarnings("squid:S2068")

- D. Contact support to bypass the pipeline step in Cloud Manager

Answer: B
