ISQI IREB Certified Professional for Requirements Engineering. Foundation Level Sample Questions (Q97-Q102):

NEW QUESTION # 97

Which sentence best characterises the term "stakeholder"? (1 Point)

- A. Stakeholders are special interest representatives who are responsible for the approval of the first project phase.
- B. A stakeholder is responsible for the administration of the software development environment.
- C. The external actors interacting with a system and the technical interfaces to surrounding systems are designated as stakeholders.

- D. Stakeholders are persons and organisations affected by the development and the use of the system or of the product.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 98

Complete the sentence:

"Once a requirement is implemented in an operational product, _____ is required to change it."

- A. A less formal process
- B. No process
- C. A stricter than normal process
- D. The same usual process

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

When a requirement is only on paper, changing it mainly affects documentation and plans. After implementation in a live system, changes may impact users, safety, regulatory compliance and integration with other systems. Therefore, the handbook recommends a stricter change-management process for operational products: formal impact analysis, approvals (e.g., change advisory board), regression testing and possibly stakeholder communication. This is stricter than the standard change procedure used earlier in development. So option A correctly reflects the need for stronger governance.

NEW QUESTION # 99

As input for the system development, the Board of Directors of an automotive manufacturer has specified the following goals:

1. The infotainment system should be easy to operate.
2. The user must be able to operate the system without becoming distracted from the road traffic.
3. The system should function without an additional power source.
4. The system should be configurable for various models of car.

With which two approaches can these goals be detailed and refined best? (2 Points)

- A. Clear specification of the goals with the help of use cases and the associated activity diagrams.
- B. Documentation of the goals in a sequence diagram
- C. Formulation of other goals, since the given goals are not feasible.
- D. Decomposition of the goals with the help of goal trees, in order to obtain more concrete goals.

Answer: A,B

NEW QUESTION # 100

It is INCORRECT to say that:

- A. The stakeholders of a system are its main source of requirements.
- B. Opponents and competitors are examples of stakeholders.
- C. Even persons/organizations that do not have relevant relationships with the system are considered stakeholders.
- D. Developers and operators are examples of stakeholders.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 101

A participatory RE process is commonly used in agile environments and is iterative. Besides being iterative, this process should also be:

- A. Explorative and customer-specific
- B. Prescriptive and customer-specific
- C. Prescriptive and market-oriented
- D. Explorative and market-oriented

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

CPRE describes typical facet combinations. Participatory RE involves close collaboration between customer stakeholders and the development team, as seen in agile projects. It is inherently iterative-requirements emerge and evolve through sprints-and explorative, because understanding deepens over time. It is also customer-specific: the system is built primarily for one customer organization. Prescriptive processes, in contrast, aim at fixed upfront specifications and are more aligned with contractual or market-oriented product development. Hence, the correct facet combination for participatory RE is explorative, iterative and customer-specific (option A).
