Esri Enterprise Administration Professional 2201 Sample Questions (Q34-Q39):

NEW QUESTION # 34

A GIS analyst is working with referenced data and needs to offload a large dataset of millions of oil rig locations from the geodatabase. The data must be quickly accessible for spatial visualization and queryable within ArcGIS Enterprise.

Which ArcGIS Data Store type should be configured?

- A. Spatiotemporal
- B. Tile cache
- C. External big data file share
- D. Relational

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Spatiotemporal big data store is designed for massive datasets and optimized for high-speed visualization, time-enabled querying, and big data analytics. It is ideal for storing millions of point features such as sensors or oil rig locations, especially when performance and scalability are critical.

From ArcGIS documentation:

"The spatiotemporal big data store is designed for writing and querying large volumes of spatial and temporal data. It's optimized for visualizing high-density datasets in web maps."

* Option B (Relational) works for moderate data volumes but may not scale well.

* Option C supports cached tiles, not dynamic feature access.

NEW QUESTION # 35

A GIS administrator must automate certain data workflows and administrative tasks in ArcGIS Enterprise.

The administrator must meet several requirements:

* The processes and methods must be well and thoroughly documented

* An option must be provided to modify the processes on the fly

* Scripts and processes must be shared to different individuals throughout the ArcGIS Enterprise organization

Which ArcGIS Server role should be used to meet these requirements?

- A. ArcGIS Workflow Manager Server
- B. ArcGIS Notebook Server
- C. ArcGIS GeoEvent Server

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 36

An ArcGIS Pro user receives the following error when trying to publish to ArcGIS Enterprise:

"Unable to publish to ArcGIS Server, error 001369: failed to create service" The ArcGIS Server logs reveal:

* Failed to create service

* Internal server error

* Unable to instantiate class for XML schema type

* Invalid XML registry file

* 390 ArcSOC processes running

* Server uses only half of available RAM

Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Scale up the ArcGIS Server machine resources
- B. Increase the non-interactive desktop heap size

- C. Use more dedicated instances instead of shared

Answer: C

Explanation:

This issue is consistent with desktop heap exhaustion, especially when a high number of ArcSOC processes (e.g., 390) are running on Windows. Desktop heap is a limited memory resource used for GUI and system object management. When it runs out, services can fail to start and produce XML-related errors.

Increasing the non-interactive desktop heap size in the Windows registry resolves this.

From Esri documentation:

"If the Windows desktop heap size is too low, ArcGIS Server may be unable to create new processes (ArcSOC), causing service failures and related internal server errors."

* Option B is a generic fix and won't address the specific heap exhaustion issue.

* Option C doesn't help if the root issue is OS-level heap size limits.

Reference: ArcGIS Enterprise - ArcSOC process limits and Windows desktop heap size

NEW QUESTION # 37

A new user is added to the organization and can see roads, building footprints, parcels, and traffic data shared with them in Portal for ArcGIS. However, the user cannot use analysis tools in the portal, even though the SpatialAnalysisTools service is verified to be running.

What is causing this issue?

- A. The service needs to be published as a hosted layer
- B. The hosting server has not been configured
- C. SpatialAnalysisTools needs to be restarted
- D. The new user is a Creator user type

Answer: B

Explanation:

Even if the SpatialAnalysisTools geoprocessing service is running, analysis tools in Portal for ArcGIS will not be available unless a hosting server is configured. The hosting server provides the portal with required processing capabilities, including the ability to create hosted feature layers and perform spatial analysis.

From ArcGIS documentation:

"Portal for ArcGIS requires a hosting server to run analysis tools and publish hosted feature layers. Without a hosting server, the analysis tools will be unavailable, even if the geoprocessing services are running."

* Option A is incorrect: the Creator user type does support spatial analysis, assuming privileges are assigned.

* Option C is a distraction; the service is already confirmed running.

Reference: ArcGIS Enterprise - Configuring a Hosting Server for Portal Analysis Tools

NEW QUESTION # 38

A GIS administrator publishes a feature service that references user-managed data. The administrator wants users to add new features. Users should not make changes to attributes of existing features or delete features.

Which feature service operations should be set?

- A. Update and sync
- B. Extract and create
- C. Create and query

Answer: C

Explanation:

To allow users to add new features without the ability to modify or delete existing ones, the feature service should have the "Create" and "Query" operations enabled. The "Create" operation permits users to add new features, while the "Query" operation allows them to view existing features. By not enabling the "Update" and

"Delete" operations, users are restricted from making changes to or removing existing features. This configuration is ideal for workflows where data integrity is crucial, and only the addition of new data is permitted.

Enabling "Update and sync" (Option A) would allow users to modify existing features and synchronize changes, which is not desired in this scenario. "Extract and create" (Option B) is not a standard combination of operations for controlling editing permissions in feature services.
