NEW QUESTION # 175

An IT administrator deploys Cisco 2802i APs in all office locations, including main campus and branch offices. The WLC that manages the APs is located at the data center on the main campus. The APs on the main campus are configured to use Local mode and the APs in the branches use FlexConnect mode. Which configuration must be applied to the APs for corporate devices on the main campus to be mapped to the local LAN switch on different VLANs according to the VLAN tag ID and WLAN?

- A. Disable VLAN-based Central Switching.
- B. Enable Central DHCP Processing.
- C. Disable FlexConnect Local Auth
- D. Enable FlexConnect Local Switching.

Answer: D

Explanation:

In a FlexConnect deployment, enabling FlexConnect Local Switching allows branch office APs to map client traffic directly onto the local LAN, bypassing the need to tunnel all traffic back to the WLC at the main campus. This is essential for corporate devices at branch offices to access local resources efficiently and to be mapped to the correct VLANs according to their VLAN tag ID and WLAN. This setting is not relevant for APs in Local mode at the main campus, as they already switch traffic locally by default.

NEW QUESTION # 176

The security team is concerned about the access to all network devices, including the Cisco WLC. To permit only the admin subnet to have access to management, a CPU ACL is created and applied. However, guest users cannot get to the web portal. What must be configured to permit only admins to have access?

- A. The guest portal must be configured on the CPU ACLs on the Cisco WLC.
- B. Traffic toward the virtual interface must be permitted.
- C. Management traffic from the guest network must be configured on the ACL rules.
