CWNP Certified Wireless Design Professional Sample Questions (Q236-Q241):

NEW QUESTION # 236

Main Topic:Infrastructure Design

Question:

Four buildings are located in a square orientation to each other. Fisch Stix Food Company is requesting a PtMP link between the buildings. On the building with the root bridge link, what type of antenna is the best choice?

- A. Vertically polarized omni
- B. 100° sector
- C. Parabolic dish
- D. 60° yagi
- E. Horizontally polarized omni

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

In a Point-to-Multipoint (PtMP) setup where one building serves as the central hub (root bridge) connecting to multiple other buildings arranged in a square, a 100° sector antenna is ideal. This type of antenna provides a wide coverage area, allowing it to effectively communicate with all the other buildings positioned around it.

Sector antennas focus the RF energy in a specific direction, offering better performance and reduced interference compared to omni-directional antennas in such scenarios.
