NEW QUESTION # 20
Possibilities for a failure in a single SGM of a Security Group include.

- A. SecureXL is not enabled on the SGM.
- B. An administrator imported a hotfix into the CPUSE repository of a single SGM.
- C. There are too many active SGMs in the SG.
- D. A change was made with clish instead of gClish, causing the SGM to handle traffic differently than the other SGMs.

Answer: B

Explanation:
One of the possible causes of a failure in a single SGM of a Security Group is that an administrator imported a hotfix into the CPUSE repository of a single SGM, instead of using the orchestrator to distribute the hotfix to all the SGMs in the Security Group. This can create a mismatch in the software versions and configurations of the SGMs, and lead to unexpected behavior and errors.
