EXIN Certified Data Centre Professional (CDCP) Sample Questions (Q65-Q70):

NEW QUESTION # 65

Which type of copper wire is used for grounding the racks to the SRG?

- A. Braided copper wire or flat copper strip.
- B. Thin copper cable to keep the cost low for grounding.
- C. Copper cable with plastic insulation (isolation).
- D. Thick copper cable to create better grounding.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The type of copper wire that is used for grounding the racks to the SRG (signal reference grid) in a data centre is braided copper wire or flat copper strip, according to the CDCP Preparation Guide¹ and various web sources^{2,3,4}. Braided copper wire or flat copper strip are preferred over thin or thick copper cable for grounding purposes, because they have lower impedance and higher surface area, which allow better dissipation of electrical noise and interference. Moreover, braided copper wire or flat copper strip are more flexible and durable than copper cable, which make them easier to install and maintain. Braided copper wire or flat copper strip should be connected to the SRG using exothermic welding or other code-compliant methods, and should follow the relevant standards and codes, such as ANSI/TIA/EIA-607 and NFPA 70.

NEW QUESTION # 66

What needs to be installed in the battery room when using Lithium-ion batteries?

- A. A proper ventilation system since Lithium-ion batteries produce highly flammable Hydrogen gas during charging.
- B. A battery management system to monitor and prevent unsafe temperatures during charging/discharging.
- C. A proper supply of distilled water.
- D. High capacity air-conditioning equipment since Lithium-ion batteries are sensitive to high temperatures, which can reduce their lifetime.

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the EPI Data Centre Training Framework, lithium-ion batteries are becoming more popular in data centres due to their higher energy density, longer lifespan, and lower maintenance costs compared to lead-acid batteries¹. However, lithium-ion batteries also have some drawbacks, such as higher initial cost, stricter safety requirements, and potential thermal runaway risks¹. Therefore, a battery management system (BMS) is essential to monitor and control the voltage, current, temperature, and state of charge of each battery cell or module, and to prevent overcharging, over-discharging, or overheating^{2,3}. A BMS can also communicate with the UPS system and provide information on the battery status, performance, and health².

NEW QUESTION # 67

Which Class of Fires involves ordinary combustible materials such as paper, wood and cloth?

- A. Class A
- B. Class K
- C. Class D

- D. Class B

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the CDCP® Preparation Guide, Class A fires involve ordinary combustible materials such as paper, wood and cloth. These materials leave behind ash or embers when they burn. Class A fires can be extinguished by water or other cooling agents that reduce the temperature of the fuel below its ignition point.

NEW QUESTION # 68

Which one of the following is a factor that can affect Availability and Reliability?

- A. Attenuation
- B. Inadequate Cooling
- C. Employee Salaries
- D. Radio Active Waves

Answer: B

Explanation:

Availability and reliability are two important aspects of data centre performance that measure how often the system is operational and how dependable it is. According to the EPI Data Centre Framework, availability is the percentage of time that a system or component is in an operable state, while reliability is the probability that a system or component will perform its required function under given conditions for a specified period of time. Both availability and reliability can be affected by various factors, such as design, maintenance, human error, power supply, security, etc. One of the factors that can have a significant impact on both availability and reliability is cooling. Cooling is essential for maintaining the optimal temperature and humidity levels for the IT equipment and preventing overheating, which can cause failures, downtime, and reduced lifespan.

Inadequate cooling can result from insufficient capacity, poor airflow management, faulty components, or environmental conditions. Inadequate cooling can reduce the availability and reliability of the data centre by increasing the risk of thermal stress, hot spots, performance degradation, and equipment damage. Therefore, cooling is a critical factor that can affect availability and reliability in a data centre.

NEW QUESTION # 69

Which one of the following is a device that uses circulating chilled water to remove heat?

- A. Computer Room Air Handling Unit (CRAH)
- B. Computer Room Air Suppression Unit (CRAS)
- C. Computer Room Air System Unit (CRAS)
- D. Computer Room Air Suspension Unit (CRAS)

Answer: A

Explanation:

A computer room air handling unit (CRAH) is a device that uses circulating chilled water to remove heat from the data center environment. A CRAH consists of a fan, a coil, and a filter. The fan draws the warm air from the data center and passes it through the coil, where the heat is transferred to the chilled water. The chilled water is supplied by a chiller or a cooling tower, and the cooled air is returned to the data center. A CRAH is different from a computer room air conditioning unit (CRAC), which uses a refrigerant instead of chilled water to cool the air.
