Adobe Experience Manager DevOps Engineer Expert Sample Questions (Q94-Q99):

NEW QUESTION # 94

A DevOps engineer needs to set up a service-oriented integration with Adobe Target in Adobe I/O CLI. Which authentication method should be used?

- A. OAuth 2.0
- B. Basic auth
- C. JWT

Answer: A

Explanation:

For headless, service-to-service integrations via Adobe I/O (Adobe Developer Console), JWT (JSON Web Tokens) was historically the standard. However, Adobe officially deprecated the Service Account (JWT) credentials in favor of the new OAuth

2.0 Server-to-Server credential implementation. Because Adobe exams are updated to reflect current platform deprecations and best practices, OAuth 2.0 is the correct, modern standard for programmatic authentication without a user interface.

NEW QUESTION # 95

Which approach is best for configuring fundamental settings in Adobe Experience Manager (AEM) across multiple environments?

- A. Use the OSGi Web Console to apply manual changes in each environment
- B. Apply OSGi configurations through code and deploy them via the Cloud Manager pipeline
- C. Use the /apps/settings folder to manage configurations centrally
- D. Store configurations in the JCR under /apps/config

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 96

A customer of multiple Adobe Experience Cloud products, including Analytics, Tags, and AEM as a Cloud Service, recently onboarded a new team for their Technical Documentation site. This team is separate from the team that manages the Marketing site. The Marketing team was the first group to start using AEM, and they originally named their Admin Console group, "AEM Authors". To enable independent permissions management for both teams, the Admin Console Administrator renames the "AEM Authors" group to "Marketing AEM Authors", and adds a separate group for the Technical Documentation authors. The DevOps engineer receives a report from the Marketing team that a new team member is unable to access the Production environment after being added to the "Marketing AEM Authors" group in Admin Console. What should the DevOps engineer do?

- A. Using repoint, migrate the user accounts from the "Marketing AEM Authors" group to the "AEM Authors" group.
- B. Using repoint, change the rep:externalid property for the "AEM Authors" group to "Marketing AEM Authors;ims".
- C. In AEM, rename the "AEM Authors" group to "Marketing AEM Authors" to match the Admin Console group name.
- D. In AEM, make the "Marketing AEM Authors" group a member of the same group as the "AEM Authors" group.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When an Admin Console (IMS) group is renamed, it synchronizes into AEM as an entirely new group, leaving the old group intact. The new "Marketing AEM Authors" group has no permissions mapped to it inside AEM, which is why the new user cannot access anything. Trying to rename the AEM group or manipulate its backend ID (rep:externalid) can break IMS synchronization. The standard, safest best practice is to take the newly synchronized IMS group ("Marketing AEM Authors") and add it as a member of the existing AEM permission structure (the original "AEM Authors" group, or the underlying AEM content- authors group). This grants the new IMS group all inherited permissions seamlessly.

NEW QUESTION # 97

A DevOps engineer wants to migrate a project code base into Cloud Manager. Which two actions must the DevOps engineer take to make sure the migration is successful? (Choose two.)

- A. Run the Dispatcher validator to make sure there are no errors in the Dispatcher configuration.
- B. Review the source code and make sure it meets the required standards and that all the classes have unit tests.
- C. Build and deploy the source code repository to a local environment using the latest version of the SDK.
- D. Run the source code through a local static code quality checker and analyze the report to identify any potential issues.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

When migrating an existing AEM code base to AEM as a Cloud Service (AEMaaCS), the structure and rules are strictly enforced by the Cloud Manager pipeline. Before pushing code, a DevOps engineer must validate the code locally against the AEM as a Cloud Service SDK to ensure OSGi bundles resolve and mutable /immutable content separations are respected (Option B). Additionally, the Dispatcher configuration has migrated from an Apache-based structure to a strict AEMaaCS format. Running the local Dispatcher Validator CLI tool (Option C) is mandatory to ensure there are no syntax or structural errors in the dispatcher configurations, which would otherwise immediately fail the Cloud Manager build pipeline.

NEW QUESTION # 98

An AEM customer wants to automate the aggregation of Cloud Manager pipeline execution metrics into a custom performance dashboard application. The system administrator of the custom application recommends that the website project team use their CI/CD server to collect the relevant data from Cloud Manager and upload it to the dashboard every 30 minutes.

Which steps should the DevOps engineer take?

- A. 1. Add a new user account in Admin Console for the CI server agent. 2. Add the account to the "Cloud Manager - Developer" and "Cloud Manager - Deployment Manager" Product Profiles.
- B. 1. Create a new project in the Adobe I/O Console. 2. Add an API integration for the "Cloud Manager" service using a generated key pair.
- C. 1. In Cloud Manager, open the Developer Console. 2. Click the "Get Service Credentials" button on the Integrations tab.

Answer: B

Explanation:

To allow an external system (like a CI/CD server or custom dashboard) to programmatically interact with Cloud Manager (such as fetching pipeline metrics), you must set up a server-to-server API integration. This is done via the Adobe Developer Console (Adobe I/O). The DevOps engineer must create a new project, add the Cloud Manager API service, and configure authentication using a public/private key pair (typically generating a JWT token for secure, headless authentication). Adding standard user accounts (Option A) is an anti-pattern for system integrations because it relies on interactive logins or brittle basic auth.
