NEW QUESTION # 136

When developing a process, you were provided with two data tables, "DT1" and "DT2", as shown below:

□ The process documentation specifies that the two data tables need to be manipulated in order to reflect the following "DT2":

□ How should the properties of the Merge Data Table activity be configured?

- A. □
- B. □
- C. □
- D. □

Answer: C

Explanation:

Given the two data tables DT1 and DT2, to achieve the desired result where DT2 contains both the department and the names, the Merge Data Table activity should be configured to merge DT1 into DT2. This configuration requires specifying DT1 as the source table and DT2 as the destination table. The MissingSchemaAction should be set to AddWithKey which ensures that if the source table (DT1) contains columns that are not found in the destination table (DT2), they will be added to the destination table with the primary key information preserved.

Option A shows the correct configuration for the Merge Data Table activity to achieve this result:

Destination: DT1

Source: DT2

MissingSchemaAction: AddWithKey

This setup correctly adds the "Name" column from DT1 to DT2 based on the shared "ID" column, which acts as the key. Since both tables have an "ID" column with matching values, the names will be added to the corresponding IDs in DT2, resulting in a merged table with ID, Department, and Name columns.

What do the percentages from the Test Explorer panel represent?

- A. Coverage percent.
- B. Correctness of the code percent.
- C. Passing percent.
- D. Percent of test data run.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The percentages from the Test Explorer panel represent the passing percent of the test cases that are executed.

The Test Explorer panel shows the status of each test case, the total number of test cases, the number of passed test cases, the number of failed test cases, and the passing percent. The passing percent is calculated by dividing the number of passed test cases by the total number of test cases and multiplying by 100. For example, if there are 10 test cases and 8 of them pass, the passing percent is 80%. References: Test Explorer
