NEW QUESTION # 279

Which Cloud Service Provider (CSP) security measure is primarily used to filter and monitor HTTP requests to protect against SQL injection and XSS attacks?

- A. Web Application Firewall
- B. Virtual Appliance
- C. CSP firewall
- D. Intrusion Detection System

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Web Application Firewall (WAF) is primarily used to filter and monitor HTTP requests to protect web applications from various types of attacks, including SQL injection and cross-site scripting (XSS). WAFs work by analyzing incoming traffic and blocking malicious requests based on predefined rules or patterns, thus preventing attackers from exploiting vulnerabilities in web applications. CSP firewall is more focused on general network security, not specifically on application layer attacks like SQL injection or XSS. Virtual Appliance refers to a virtualized instance of a security appliance, but it is not specifically designed for protecting against SQL injection and XSS attacks like a WAF. Intrusion Detection System (IDS) is used for detecting suspicious network activity and potential intrusions, but it is not focused on filtering web application traffic like a WAF.

NEW QUESTION # 280

What goal is most directly achieved by implementing controls and policies that aim to provide a complete view of data use and exposure in a cloud environment?

- A. Enhancing data governance and compliance
- B. Reducing the cost of cloud storage
- C. Simplifying cloud service integrations
- D. Increasing cloud data processing speed

Answer: A

Explanation:

Implementing these controls supports data governance and compliance by providing visibility into data handling and potential exposures. Reference: [Security Guidance v5, Domain 9 - Data Security]

NEW QUESTION # 281

Which technique is most effective for preserving digital evidence in a cloud environment?

- A. Isolating the compromised system
- B. Regularly backing up data
- C. Taking snapshots of virtual machines
- D. Analyzing management plane logs

Answer: C

Explanation:

Taking snapshots of virtual machines (VMs) is one of the most effective techniques for preserving digital evidence in a cloud environment. Snapshots capture the entire state of a VM, including its memory, configuration, and disk contents at a particular point in time. This allows investigators to preserve evidence as it was at the moment of the incident, enabling detailed analysis without altering the original state of the system.

While isolating the compromised system is important to prevent further damage, snapshots are more directly useful for preserving evidence. Backing up data and analyzing management plane logs are also valuable for incident response, but they don't capture the complete state of a compromised system as effectively as snapshots do.
