- A. It is used to congratulate the Development Team if it did what it forecast, or to punish the Development Team if it failed to meet its forecast.
- B. It is a demo at the end of the Sprint for everyone in the organization to check on the work done.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 207

When multiple Scrum Teams are working on a single product, what best describes the Definition of Done? (choose the best answer)

- A. Each Scrum Team defines and uses its own. The differences are discussed and reconciled during a hardening Sprint.
- B. Each Scrum Team uses its own, but must make their definition clear to all other teams so the differences are known.
- C. The Scrum Masters from each Scrum Team define a common Definition of Done.
- D. When multiple Scrum Teams are working together on a product, they must mutually define and comply with the same Definition of Done.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The correct answer is A. When multiple Scrum Teams are working together on a product, they must mutually define and comply with the same Definition of Done. According to the Scrum Guide1, "If there are multiple Scrum Teams working on the system or product release, the development teams on all of the Scrum Teams must mutually define the definition of "Done"." This ensures that the product increment is integrated, consistent, and potentially releasable at the end of each Sprint. The other options are incorrect because they allow for different Definitions of Done for different teams, which can lead to confusion, inconsistency, and technical debt.
