NEW QUESTION # 141

A user at Northern Trail Outfitters is having trouble logging in to Salesforce. The user's login history shows that this person has attempted to log in multiple times and has been locked out of the organization. Which two steps should a Platform Administrator take to help the user log in to Salesforce?

- A. Log in as the user to unlock the user and reset the password.
- B. Reset the password policies to allow the user to login.
- C. Use the unlock button on the user's record detail page.
- D. Reset password on the user's record detail page.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

When a user is locked out of Salesforce due to too many incorrect login attempts, the Platform Administrator must take specific actions on the user's record detail page to restore access. First, the administrator should click the Unlock button¹⁹. This clears the lockout status immediately²⁰. Second, because the user likely forgot their credentials (causing the failed attempts), the administrator should use the Reset Password button²¹. This sends a temporary link to the user's email, allowing them to create a new password and log in successfully. "Logging in as the user" (Option A) is a troubleshooting tool for existing sessions but cannot bypass a lockout or change a password on the user's behalf. Changing "Password Policies" (Option D) would affect the entire organization and is not a valid way to help a single locked-out individual.
